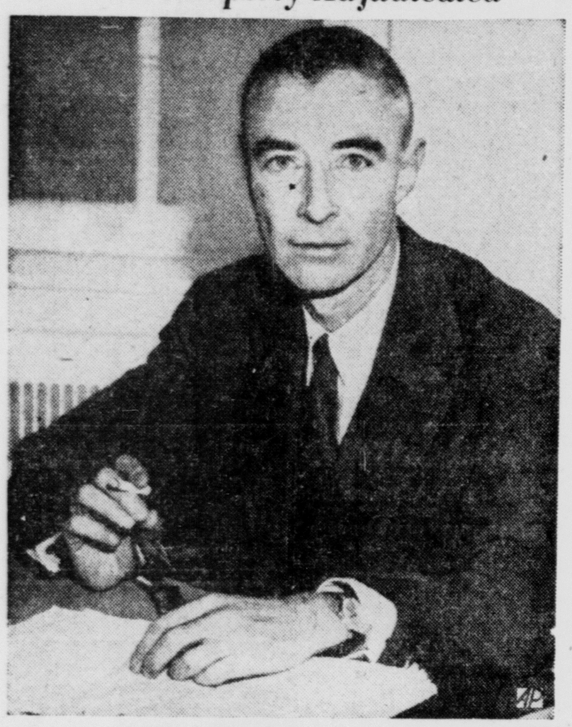
New Deadlock Arises on Red Participation in Asia Armistice

'Not Properly Adjudicated'



Atom scientist Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, whom a special Atomic Energy Commission board recommended be barred from atomic secrets, poses at his desk in Princeton, N. J. Wilson Has View Parley Is Political Statement Given as Five Powers' Staff Chiefs Arrive in Capital for Conference

Washington, June 3 (AP)—The military commanders of five powers assembled today at the Pentagon to consider the problems of Communist-menaced Southeast Asia—questions which Secretary of Defense Wilson terms more political than military.

Ahead of the chiefs of staff or their representatives for the United States, Britain, France, Australia and New Zealand were five or six days of discussion of what might be done in a military way to save Southeast Asia, including direly threatened Indochina, from falling to Red domination.

But any strategy, any further arms aid considered in these exploratory discussions was limited to existing or future decisions by the chiefs of state and diplomatic representatives of the five powers.

Less Than Anticipated

The military meeting obviously was something less than the American State Department had hoped for. And this was reflected in Wilson's comment to newsmen who met him last night upon his return from a three-week trip to the Far East.

The secretary, saying the people who had been in Washington knew more about the meeting than he, added:

"I will say that I understand the five power discussions will be on a military level. I happen to think most of the problems are on a political level."

Wilson was asked what people in the Far East thought about Indochina. "I think they (Asians) feel that southeast Asia is a different proposition than east Asia," he said, adding "it's more involved with the remains of colonialism, which also complicates the problem."

Steps in Philippines

Although the United States' effort to bring about multi-lateral agreement among the big powers to stave off Red aggression in southeast Asia has made no substantial progress, Wilson disclosed that forward steps have been taken in the combined effort of the Philippines and the United States.

Wilson said he and President Ramon Magsaysay "agreed the time has come to implement the treaty" the two powers have made and that "we arrived at an agreement to go right ahead." Wilson did not give details of the implementation of the mutual defense treaty, which calls for joint consultations if the security of either country is threatened.

Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, designated Adm. Robert B. Carney, chief of naval operations, to represent him in the Pentagon talks.

Coming to Washington with their aides were Field Marshal Sir John Harding of Britain, Gen. Paul Ely of France, Lt. Gen. Sir Sydney Rowell of Australia and Maj. Gen. W. G. Gentry of New Zealand. Their meeting place was a conference room in the Pentagon.

Molotov Reports Communists on Agency Are Needed

Geneva, June 3 (AP)—Western and Communist delegates wrestled with a new deadlock today over the thorny question of Red participation in the policing of an Indochina armistice.

Agreement on this key point appeared remote as the nine-party Far Eastern Conference prepared for another secret session today.

The deadlock developed at yesterday's closed door meeting when Russia insisted that the Communists must be represented on any truce supervision commission. The western powers firmly demanded exclusion of any Red representatives.

Russia's Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov reflected the gravity of the problem when he told the conference it would be difficult to reach agreement on truce supervisory machinery unless Communists were represented on the proposed agency.

Another Difficulty

Another difficulty arose yesterday when Pham Van Dong, vice premier of the Communist-led Vietminh, declared the proposed neutral nations supervisory commission should be given only one task—controlling the entry of arms and troops from the outside.

He got quick support from Molotov, but France's Foreign Minister Georges Bidault declared that the commission should control all phases of a cease-fire, including regrouping of forces, policing of ports, watching Red China's frontiers and checking on all war materials.

The new difficulties were regarded as extremely serious in view of the importance attached to the policing problem. Western diplomats have insisted from the beginning that there can be no cease-fire unless there is a truly neutral body to supervise implementation of agreements reached in Geneva.

Can't Be Neutral

Western officials argue that Communist nations can not be neutral in a dispute where one of the parties is Communist.

The Reds indicated yesterday they want the major burden of supervising the cease-fire to be borne by mixed French-Vietminh commissions rather than the broader international body.

Bidault, on the other hand, said France would agree to have the neutral commission set up a small

Testifies Under Oath At Session

Counsel Says Situation That of 'Stacked Deck' if Perjury Develops From Hearings

Washington, June 3 (AP)—Roy M. Cohn said today that Atty. Gen. Brownell or his assistant "instigated" the army-McCarthy hearings and that this constituted a "stacked deck" against the McCarthy side if perjury charges develop from the hearings.

Cohn threw out this charge in the 26th day of the army-McCarthy hearings as Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) pressed a series of "true or false" questions to Cohn.

Cohn testified under oath it was "true" that the army filed its charges against McCarthy and him after failing in "blackmail attempts" to try to halt the McCarthy subcommittee investigation of the army.

Earlier, when Secretary of the Army Stevens and Army Counselor John C. Adams were witnesses, Jackson had pursued a similar "true or false" line of questioning.

Reads Laws to Cohn

Jackson read the perjury laws to Cohn and reminded him that Stevens and Adams had testified the "blackmail" charge was false.

Cohn insisted this charge had been "proved" by testimony from senators on the subcommittee itself.

Cohn referred to testimony by the senators that Adams had visited them "to try to kill" a move by the McCarthy subcommittee to subpoena members of the army loyalty board. Cohn said one of the senators (Dirksen, R-Ill.) had said Adams "hinted" that if the subpoenas were not dropped "something else would be done."

Cohn said Brownell's office had "instigated" the proceedings, adding that Brownell would be the one to review the testimony and decide who, if anyone, should be prosecuted for perjury (lying under oath).

Calls Are in Record

In the midst of Cohn's testimony, the first of the much disputed monitored telephone calls were put into the record. This came when Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.) read a transcript of three talks he had with Secretary Stevens.

Since the early days of the televised hearings, begun April 22, there has been off-and-on wrangling over introduction of telephone calls on which Stevens had his appointment clerk, John Lucas Jr., take shorthand notes.

Dirksen asked whether there were any objection to his reading his calls with the army secretary. He was permitted to go ahead.

All bore on the alleged mistreatment of Brig. Gen. Ralph Zwicker by McCarthy during an investigation of alleged Communist infiltration of the army.

Appears to Be 'Yellow-Belly'

In one Stevens said he (Stevens) appeared to be a "yellow-belly" in the row with Sen. McCarthy.

Dirksen quoted Stevens also as declaring, "I think I have been absolutely crucified and the (armed) services with me."

The calls were last February.

Dirksen proceeded to read his calls after a long argument over whether the transcripts available to the investigations subcommittee should be spread on the record.

Jury Is Chosen To Hear Testimony

Case of Four Puerto Ricans Who Shot Congressmen Picked in Hour

Washington, June 3 (AP)—A jury of seven men and five women was chosen in just under an hour today to hear the case of the four Puerto Ricans who shot up the House of Representatives last March 1.

Only 12 prospective jurors were challenged—nine of them by the defense. None of them was disqualified on the question of whether they were prejudiced because of what they read or heard about the shooting spree in which five congressmen were wounded. Trouble in picking a jury had been anticipated because of the great publicity given the shooting.

Stony-faced Lolita Lebron, 34, self-styled ringleader of the Puerto Rican Nationalist quartet, made one attempt to speak up as the trial opened before U. S. District Judge Alexander Holtzoff.

As she was identified to the court, Mrs. Lebron began, "May I say. . . ."

Public Assistance Necessary, Says CD Director Hanstein

Specific ways in which the public will be asked to cooperate in the audible air raid warning drill on June 14 and 15 were listed today in a release from Col. Allan L. Hanstein, director of Civil Defense for the Ulster Kingston CD Council.

"Every person can aid in making this important test a success and at the same time learn to protect themselves by learning a few simple rules and then following them, when the "red" warning sounds," Col. Hanstein said. These are the rules:

1. If you are out doors, seek the best available shelter quickly in the same manner you would if it were an actual air raid alert.

2. Drivers of cars or trucks will pull to the curb or as close thereto as possible and park in a manner which will not obstruct the movement of emergency vehicles. Occupants of vehicles will shut off the ignition, remove the key, and seek shelter.

3. Buses will halt but passengers will remain in their seats.

4. Persons indoors will remain there until the "white" all-clear has sounded.

5. All persons are asked not

Security Council Votes to Discuss 'Watchdog' Plea

Thailand's Bid Marks First Time Indochina Crisis Is Put Before UN

United Nations, June 3 (AP)—Over Soviet objections, the UN Security Council voted 10-1 today to discuss a Thailand request for a UN peace watchdog commission to study the Indochina War threat on Thailand's borders. This is the first time the Indochina war crisis has been put before the UN.

Only the Soviet Union opposed the Thailand request. That act foreshadowed a Soviet veto.

In the council's opening speech, Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin charged the move would hinder peace in Indochina. He said it would interfere with negotiations at Geneva on an Indochina cease-fire.

Switches From Opposition

France switched from its previous opposition to support putting the question on the council agenda for debate.

Tsarapkin said the Thai request would only serve the interests of "aggressive circles" and the interests of the United States by interfering with Indochinese armistice at Geneva. He said it was not necessary to discuss the situation here at present.

Tsarapkin was not able to prevent the Thai ambassador, Pote Sarasin, from speaking on his

R. R. Young Wins Another Round

New York, June 3 — Robert R. Young won another round in his fight for control of the New York Central Railroad today when railroad attorneys agreed to discontinue a court suit involving 800,000 shares of stock bought by Young supporters.

The railroad's action came just a day after election inspectors counting proxy votes cast in last week's stockholders' meeting at Albany, approved unanimously the voting of the disputed shares.

The shares are owned by Sid W. Richardson and Clint W. Murchison, both Texans.

Belgian Transport Reports Attack; Officer Is Killed

Vienna, Austria, June 3 (AP)—A Belgian freight plane was shot up by another plane today near the Yugoslav-Austrian frontier, and its radio officer killed. Two of the surviving crewmen described the attacking plane as a Russian-made MIG, possibly from Hungary.

Air Force Academy Site Narrows to Three Locations

Secretary Talbott Says Further Inspection Due Before Selection

Washington, June 3 (AP)—The air force announced today that its search for an academy site has been definitely narrowed to three locations—Alton, Ill., Colorado Springs, Colo., and Lake Geneva, Wis.

Air Force Secretary Talbott made the announcement, saying the three sites had been recommended by a five-man board and he must make the final choice from among them.

Talbott said he would make his decision only after further personal inspections by himself and his staff, and that he will study thoroughly the problems of land acquistion, engineering and all factors at the three locations before making his pick.

Traveled 18,000 Miles

The academy selection board started its search at the beginning of April, traveling more than 18,000 miles and reading reports and recommendations involving more than 400 locations proposed by civic groups and local communities.

The task of choosing a permanent site for the academy was assigned to Virgil M. Hancher, president of the University of Iowa; Brig. Gen. Charles A. Lindbergh; Merrill Meigs, vice president of the Hearst Corp; Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, first chief of staff of the Air Force, and Lt. Gen. Hubert R. Harmond, special assistant to the chief of staff for Air Force Academy matters.

Legislation authorizing the academy was signed by President Eisenhower on April 1, but the idea of setting one up was conceived shortly after the Air Force became a separate service in September, 1947.

Pipeline to IBM Is Finished; Due for Test

The 4,400-foot pipeline installed to extend water service from the city system to the site of the IBM plant in the town of Ulster was completed today and will be tested early next week, Edmund T. Cloonan, water department superintendent said today.

Only manholes and meter pits are to be completed. The city's replacement of a section of pipeline from the filter plant and the Jockey Hill road is also finished and the 5,650-foot line is now in service. The line was tested at the end of last week.

Condon Says Defense Agency Reviews His Security Status

Corning, June 3 (AP)—Dr. Edward U. Condon, the former head of the U. S. Bureau of Standards, said last night that Defense Department officials were reviewing his security status.

Condon, now research inspector for the Corning Glass Works, said he was working "exclusively on non-military projects involving no access to classified information" while the review was pending.

He declined to elaborate when asked whether the Defense Department action constituted a suspension of clearance, but said the current review was in connection with the glass firm's government contracts. Corning does work for the navy department.

In a statement, Condon said his loyalty to the United States was not an issue in the security review. Nor was there any suggestion, Condon said, that he ever had breached security regulations or had been indiscreet in handling secret information.

He did not say when the review was begun, or by what agency.

In Washington, Defense Department officials said a check disclosed no one in the Washington area who knew about the review. One spokesman said the navy might be handling it.

Condon, who resigned from the Bureau of Standards post in October, 1951, to come here, once was described by the House Un-American Activities Committee as "the weakest link" in the nation's atomic security chain. He has repeatedly denied this.

Condon said he had not been consulted by government agencies on classified material since he left government service. He added that during his tenure as a government official his security clearance never had been suspended and that he had had fullest clearance.

Condon's name has cropped up in the security investigation of Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, the physicist who headed the Los Alamos atomic bomb project during World War 2.

Condon was mentioned in a report made public Tuesday by the Special Personnel Security Board of the Atomic Energy Commission that voted 2-1 against reinstating Oppenheimer as a consultant to the government on atomic energy.

Condon issued his statement as a result of the special board's report.

The former Bureau of Standards chief said he would have no comment on references to him in the Oppenheimer findings except to say that his "right of constituted access to classified information of the government" was under review.

The special three-man personnel security board voted unanimously that Oppenheimer was a "loyal" citizen and had been "discreet" in handling atomic secrets.

Red Tome Says Lend-Lease Enriched Monopolies in U.S.

Moscow, June 3 (AP)—The Great Soviet Encyclopedia describes U.S. lend-lease, which helped Russia beat back Hitler's invasion, as "one of the greatest sources of enrichment of the American monopolies during the second World War."

Lend-lease gets nearly a page in the encyclopedia's volume 24, just off the presses here. Its figure on what the Russians received under the program — $9,800,000,000 — is more than one billion dollars under what the U.S. government says it gave Moscow.

The encyclopedia article also claims:

1. Lend-lease arms and materials were sold by American sources at inflated prices.

2. What the Soviet Union took from the United States was "insignificant" compared to Russian industrial output during the war.

3. The United States gave Britain a very generous deal on settlement of the British account but fixed terms for the Soviet Union "deliberately higher."

The article explains briefly the lend-lease program and how it operated, listing its cost to the United States at 46 billion dollars. It said American "ruling circles" planned to use the program "for

Water Saving Is Asked for Period

Edmund T. Cloonan, water department superintendent, today announced that the city's main 20-inch conduit from Cooper Lake to the filter plant will be shut off for cleaning from 7 a. m., tomorrow to 7 a. m., Saturday.

During the cleansing period, he said, the city will be supplied with water from its emergency reservoir No. 4 in the Zena area.

The superintendent requests all water consumers to cooperate in the conservation of water while the emergency reservoir is in use, because a reduction of water consumption during the period will help insure adequate pressure for fire protection and domestic use.

Cleaning of this section of the conduit, which was last cleaned in 1940, he explained, will help to assure adequate water supply in the city during the summer months.

Molotov Reports Communists on Agency Are Needed

Geneva, June 3 (AP)—Western and Communist delegates wrestled with a new deadlock today over the thorny question of Red participation in the policing of an Indochina armistice.

Cohn Testifies Under Oath At Session

Counsel Says Situation That of 'Stacked Deck' if Perjury Develops From Hearings

Washington, June 3 (AP)—Roy M. Cohn said today that Atty. Gen. Brownell or his assistant "instigated" the army-McCarthy hearings and that this constituted a "stacked deck" against the McCarthy side if perjury charges develop from the hearings.

Cohn threw out this charge in the 26th day of the army-McCarthy hearings as Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) pressed a series of "true or false" questions to Cohn.

Cohn testified under oath it was "true" that the army filed its charges against McCarthy and him after failing in "blackmail attempts" to try to halt the McCarthy subcommittee investigation of the army.

Earlier, when Secretary of the Army Stevens and Army Counselor John C. Adams were witnesses, Jackson had pursued a similar "true or false" line of questioning.

Reads Laws to Cohn

Jackson read the perjury laws to Cohn and reminded him that Stevens and Adams had testified the "blackmail" charge was false.

Cohn insisted this charge had been "proved" by testimony from senators on the subcommittee itself.

Cohn referred to testimony by the senators that Adams had visited them "to try to kill" a move by the McCarthy subcommittee to subpoena members of the army loyalty board. Cohn said one of the senators (Dirksen, R-Ill.) had said Adams "hinted" that if the subpoenas were not dropped "something else would be done."

Cohn said Brownell's office had "instigated" the proceedings, adding that Brownell would be the one to review the testimony and decide who, if anyone, should be prosecuted for perjury (lying under oath).

Calls Are in Record

In the midst of Cohn's testimony, the first of the much disputed monitored telephone calls were put into the record. This came when Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.) read a transcript of three talks he had with Secretary Stevens.

Since the early days of the televised hearings, begun April 22, there has been off-and-on wrangling over introduction of telephone calls on which Stevens had his appointment clerk, John Lucas Jr., take shorthand notes.

Dirksen asked whether there were any objection to his reading his calls with the army secretary. He was permitted to go ahead.

All bore on the alleged mistreatment of Brig. Gen. Ralph Zwicker by McCarthy during an investigation of alleged Communist infiltration of the army.

Appears to Be 'Yellow-Belly'

In one Stevens said he (Stevens) appeared to be a "yellow-belly" in the row with Sen. McCarthy.

Dirksen quoted Stevens also as declaring, "I think I have been absolutely crucified and the (armed) services with me."

The calls were last February.

Dirksen proceeded to read his calls after a long argument over whether the transcripts available to the investigations subcommittee should be spread on the record.

Security Council Votes to Discuss 'Watchdog' Plea

Thailand's Bid Marks First Time Indochina Crisis Is Put Before UN

United Nations, June 3 (AP)—Over Soviet objections, the UN Security Council voted 10-1 today to discuss a Thailand request for a UN peace watchdog commission to study the Indochina War threat on Thailand's borders. This is the first time the Indochina war crisis has been put before the UN.

Only the Soviet Union opposed the Thailand request. That act foreshadowed a Soviet veto.

In the council's opening speech, Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin charged the move would hinder peace in Indochina. He said it would interfere with negotiations at Geneva on an Indochina cease-fire.

Switches From Opposition

France switched from its previous opposition to support putting the question on the council agenda for debate.

Tsarapkin said the Thai request would only serve the interests of "aggressive circles" and the interests of the United States by interfering with Indochinese armistice at Geneva. He said it was not necessary to discuss the situation here at present.

Tsarapkin was not able to prevent the Thai ambassador, Pote Sarasin, from speaking on his

R. R. Young Wins Another Round

New York, June 3 — Robert R. Young won another round in his fight for control of the New York Central Railroad today when railroad attorneys agreed to discontinue a court suit involving 800,000 shares of stock bought by Young supporters.

The railroad's action came just a day after election inspectors counting proxy votes cast in last week's stockholders' meeting at Albany, approved unanimously the voting of the disputed shares.

The shares are owned by Sid W. Richardson and Clint W. Murchison, both Texans.

Red Plane Fires On Freight Craft

Belgian Transport Reports Attack; Officer Is Killed

Vienna, Austria, June 3 (AP)—A Belgian freight plane was shot up by another plane today near the Yugoslav-Austrian frontier, and its radio officer killed. Two of the surviving crewmen described the attacking plane as a Russian-made MIG, possibly from Hungary.

The Belgian transport was a DC3 carrying pedigreed pigs from Britain to Belgrade, Yugoslavia. It had a crew of four—three Bel-

Air Force Academy Site Narrows to Three Locations

Secretary Talbott Says Further Inspection Due Before Selection

Washington, June 3 (AP)—The air force announced today that its search for an academy site has been definitely narrowed to three locations—Alton, Ill., Colorado Springs, Colo., and Lake Geneva, Wis.

Air Force Secretary Talbott made the announcement, saying the three sites had been recommended by a five-man board and he must make the final choice from among them.

Talbott said he would make his decision only after further personal inspections by himself and his staff, and that he will study thoroughly the problems of land acquistion, engineering and all factors at the three locations before making his pick.

Traveled 18,000 Miles

The academy selection board started its search at the beginning of April, traveling more than 18,000 miles and reading reports and recommendations involving more than 400 locations proposed by civic groups and local communities.

The task of choosing a permanent site for the academy was assigned to Virgil M. Hancher, president of the University of Iowa; Brig. Gen. Charles A. Lindbergh; Merrill Meigs, vice president of the Hearst Corp; Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, first chief of staff of the Air Force, and Lt. Gen. Hubert R. Harmond, special assistant to the chief of staff for Air Force Academy matters.

Legislation authorizing the academy was signed by President Eisenhower on April 1, but the idea of setting one up was conceived shortly after the Air Force became a separate service in September, 1947.

Pipeline to IBM Is Finished; Due for Test

The 4,400-foot pipeline installed to extend water service from the city system to the site of the IBM plant in the town of Ulster was completed today and will be tested early next week, Edmund T. Cloonan, water department superintendent said today.

Only manholes and meter pits are to be completed. The city's replacement of a section of pipeline from the filter plant and the Jockey Hill road is also finished and the 5,650-foot line is now in service. The line was tested at the end of last week.

The Kingston Lions Club Drum Corps will march on June 14 at Long Beach, L. I., in the first parade ever held at a state convention, according to an announcement from the local organization, which said the trip will be made by bus under supervision of club members. This is how the corps lined up for the recent Memorial Day parade here, with Ernest J. DuBois and Roger Baer as flag bearers. Director of the corps is Al Rossi, well-known local musician. Red Tome Says Lend-Lease Enriched Monopolies in U.S.

Lend-lease gets nearly a page in the encyclopedia's volume 24, just off the presses here. Its figure on what the Russians received under the program — $9,800,000,000 — is more than one billion dollars under what the U.S. government says it gave Moscow.

The encyclopedia article also claims:

1. Lend-lease arms and materials were sold by American sources at inflated prices.

2. What the Soviet Union took from the United States was "insignificant" compared to Russian industrial output during the war.

3. The United States gave Britain a very generous deal on settlement of the British account but fixed terms for the Soviet Union "deliberately higher."

The article explains briefly the lend-lease program and how it operated, listing its cost to the United States at 46 billion dollars. It said American "ruling circles" planned to use the program "for

Water Saving Is Asked for Period

Edmund T. Cloonan, water department superintendent, today announced that the city's main 20-inch conduit from Cooper Lake to the filter plant will be shut off for cleaning from 7 a. m., tomorrow to 7 a. m., Saturday.

During the cleansing period, he said, the city will be supplied with water from its emergency reservoir No. 4 in the Zena area.

The superintendent requests all water consumers to cooperate in the conservation of water while the emergency reservoir is in use, because a reduction of water consumption during the period will help insure adequate pressure for fire protection and domestic use.

Cleaning of this section of the conduit, which was last cleaned in 1940, he explained, will help to assure adequate water supply in the city during the summer months.

IMPROVE PUBLIC HIGHWAYS

Highway users, meeting in Washington, for once heard a cheerful forecast on the subject of road building. They were told that from now on there ought to be a rapid increase in construction.

The prophet was Albert Bradley, chairman of the National Highway Users Conference. He says the roadblocks that have been in the way for the past 12 years have been removed.

Government controls, high interest rates on the financing of projects, insufficient manpower and shortages of such vital materials as steel are among the deterrents lately eliminated.

If Bradley is correct in his appraisal, then the mere motorist, looking at the nation's highways from something less than a detached view, can only murmur: "It is none too soon."

By now it is a commonplace that the country hasn't been keeping up either with the need for new highways or the maintenance of the old. Were it not for the continuing trend toward engineered turnpikes, the highway picture today would probably be much blacker.

Obviously this trend is gathering pace, and before too many years it may be possible to drive over turnpike routes from New England and New York to Denver and Dallas, as well as southward to Miami from the East and Midwest.

But these roads are financed by sale of revenue bonds to the public, not through regular government funds. In the absence of an imaginative attack on highway problems by others, the authorities who favor turnpikes are bound to carry the day. This kind of road expansion will go on.

Yet it is fair to ask the question: How far? The traveling public has shown a willingness to pay for smooth, unimpeded progress on roadways engineered to match the present day automobile. But a highway network is more than a few turnpikes, more even than a few per state.

What it gets down to is that the federal and state governments must modernize and recast their thinking to develop a truly adequate plan for financing the vast highway improvements which must go hand in hand with the growth of turnpikes.

Bradley says the bars to this sort of development are now down. It remains to be seen what public authorities can do to translate this opportunity into the reality of a fully modern highway network for the United States.

OLD FRENCH CENSOR

Our would-be censors will be interested to hear of the royal decree of King Francis I of France, issued in January, 1535. This forbade all printing whatsoever, upon pain of hanging, and ordered all bookshops to be closed. Its sponsors probably rejoiced that now the way was closed to the spread of pernicious ideas.

Alas for the censors! The good sense of the French caused this preposterous decree to be withdrawn within a month. Since then Frenchmen have not as a rule been afraid of the truth or hostile to its publication.

PHILIPPINE SUCCESS

The surrender of Luis Taruc, commander of the Huk Communist forces in the Philippines, represents a real victory for the administration of President Ramon Magsaysay. For years President Magsaysay was one of the most successful fighters against Communists. Now as leader of the Philippines he is giving the people the kind of government that will effectively rob the Reds of any hope of gain there.

The success of Magsaysay in his fight against the Huk rebels is in direct contrast to the failure of any form of government in Indo-China to do anything to keep the Communists in check there. Indo-China, under French domination, has had little substantial leadership from its own people and it may be that the French during their period of control there did little to encourage the development of such native leadership.

The Philippines, one of the world's newest independent countries, was for years in the custody of the United States. All the while our effort were aimed at preparing them for their independence—an independence which they earned and deserved after their heroic resistance to the Japanese in World War II. The fruits of our successful handling of the Philippines are evident.

ORLOFF V. WILLOUGHBY

In all the discussion of the Peress case little has been made of the decision of the United States Supreme Court in the case, Orloff vs. Willoughby, in which the Court held that the granting of a commission to a doctor was entirely within the discretion of the President of the United States and those acting under his authority.

The case was decided on March 9, 1953, and could have been a guide to the Army in the matter of Major Irving Peress, over the disposition of which the McCarthy-Stevens Hearings are being held.

Stanley J. Orloff is a physician who was lawfully inducted into the Army under the doctor-dentist draft. Orloff was not given the specialized duties nor the commissioned rank to which he claimed to be entitled. Orloff, like Peress, was put into the Army under the Universal Military Training and Service Act which authorizes the conscription of certain medical and allied specialist categories. Orloff made the point that he could only be inducted as a doctor and that if the Army did not choose to use him as such, he ought to be released from any military duty. He swore out a writ of habeas corpus against Colonel Rex E. Willoughby, Commandant of Fort Lawton, Seattle, Washington.

The Court states, in a decision written by Justice Robert Jackson:

". . . This petitioner refused information as to his membership in or association with organizations designated by the Attorney General as subversive or which advocated overthrow of the Government by force and violence. He gave as his reason that 'as a matter of conscience, I object to filling out the loyalty certificate because it involves an inquisition into my personal beliefs and views. Moreover, the inquiry into organizational affiliations employs the principle of guilt by association, to which I am vigorously opposed. Further, it is my understanding that all the organizations were listed by the Attorney General without notice or hearing which has caused the Supreme Court to invalidate it.'"

This is exactly the same situation as the Peress case, but it was handled differently. I quote further from the decision of the Court:

". . . As to the question 'Are you now or have you ever been a member of the Communist Party, U.S.A. or any Communist Organization?' He (Orloff) said, 'Federal constitutional privilege is claimed.'"

Further the Court said:

"The petitioner appears to be under the misconception that a commission is not only a matter of right, but is to be had upon his own terms."

The Army had the Orloff vs. Willoughby decision before it when the Peress case arose and became an issue between the Army and the McCarthy Committee. The Army could have used the decision in Orloff vs. Willoughby in the Peress case and there would have been no controversy, because the attitudes of Orloff and Peress toward loyalty questions were identical. The Court said:

". . . But, if he is the first to be denied a commission, it may also be that he is the first doctor to haggle about questions concerning his loyalty. . . ."

The Supreme Court held that it was not its view that Orloff himself could decide upon his own fitness. It held:

"It is argued that Orloff is being punished for having claimed a privilege which the Constitution guarantees. No one, at least no one on this Court which has repeatedly sustained assertion by Communists of the privilege against self-incrimination, questions or doubts Orloff's right to withhold facts about himself on this ground. No one believes he can be punished for doing so. But the question is whether he can at the same time take the position that to tell the truth about himself would incriminate him and that even so the President must appoint him to a post of honor and trust. We have no hesitation in answering that question 'No.'"

I have quoted enough from this decision to indicate its applicability to the Peress case. Why was it not applied? Why was he promoted from Captain to Major and given an honorable discharge and the entire country thrown into the turmoil of the McCarthy-Stevens Hearings? If the entire question is not political, why was not this decision applied rather than to have the current fracas? An explanation is needed.

That Body of Yours

KEEPING EPILEPSY UNDER CONTROL

Notwithstanding all that has been learned about epilepsy and its treatment, there are many who do not know the early and simple test. In this test, any patient who has the usual or practically any form of epilepsy is encouraged to drink a large amount of water for by so doing he brings on an attack of epilepsy. This test does not fail. Thus, he makes sure he has true epilepsy.

"To begin with, it should be emphasized that the therapy of epilepsy includes more than is provided by drug therapy alone. Control of other factors of the disease is important. In the person who has a tendency toward attacks of epilepsy (seizures), numerous trigger mechanisms exist; for example, emotional disturbances, stomach and intestinal upsets, excessive intake of fluids, especially alcohol, constipation, frustrations of various kinds, emotional tensions and allertic episodes. Occasionally, the number of attacks will increase during some phase of the monthly period in women. Even a state of boredoom due to deadly lack of occupation or recreation may increase the tendency to seizures. In many instances, the institution of general hygenic measures and psychiatric care are more important than drugs in controlling seizures."

In utilizing the drug treatment of epilepsy, it is advisable to begin with a single drug, gradually increasing the dose until either control or maximum effect is obtained or the dose is reached beyond which toxic (poisonous) symptoms develop. Some patients respond better to one drug than another and still other patients do best on a combination of drugs.

"Medication to prevent seizures is usually prescribed three times a day. This is occasionally reduced to two doses but in some cases four or five are needed. When all spells occur at night, it is permissable to prescribe a single dose before the patient retires. For special occasions inducing stress or excitement — birthdays, holidays, and menstrual periods — it may be necessary to increase the dose temporarily." I have been quoting Dr. Meyer A. Perlstein of the Children's Neurology Clinic and Northwestern University Medical School, Chicago.

So far as drugs are concerned, phenobarbital is the drug of choice, followed closely by Dilantin Sodium. When phenobarbital controls the seizures, no other drug is needed. The dose of Sodium Dilantin varies from one grain to 1½ grains. Needless to say, these drugs must be taken under close supervision.

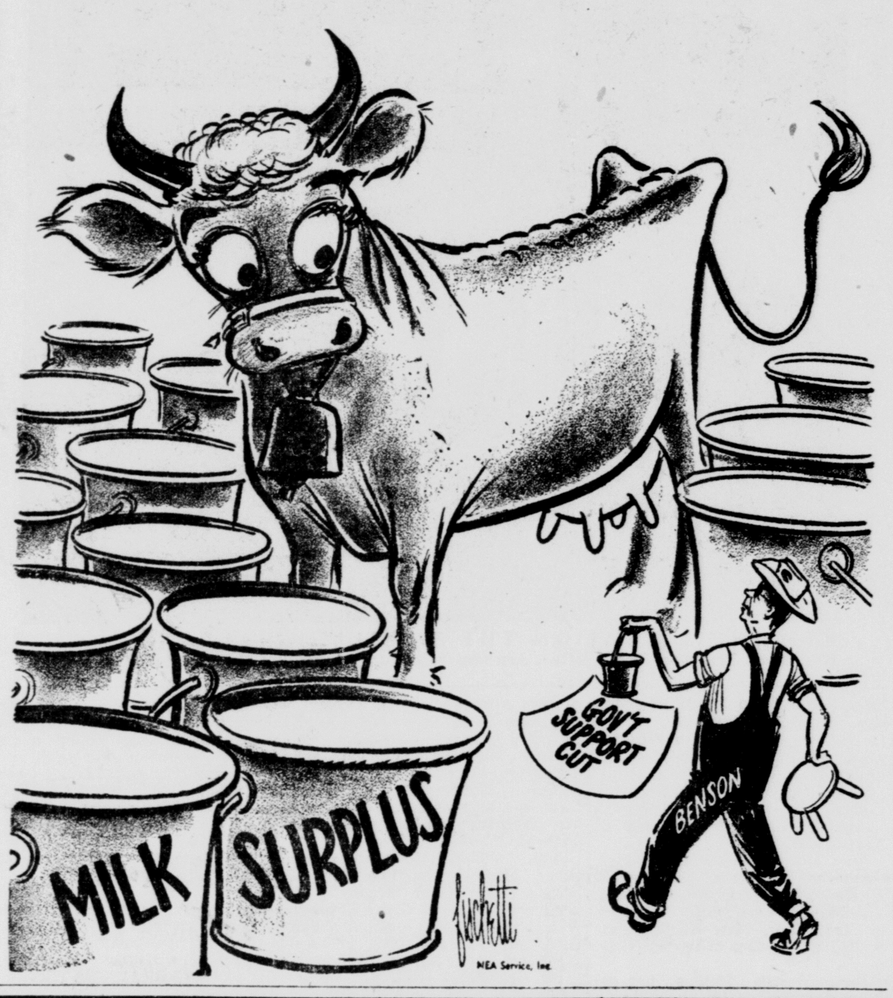
Who's Boss?



Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Corespondent

Washington, (NEA) — A new idea for an "International Atomic Energy Bank" is now being put forward by William C. Foster, president of the U. S. Manufacturing Chemists' Association.

The Foster plan calls for the loan of atomic energy materials, reactors and know-how to countries that do not have adequate power resources of their own.

It would be an extension of President Eisenhower's original proposal to the United Nations for a world pool of atomic energy, to include Soviet Russia.

The present status of President Eisenhower's proposal is not entirely clear. Russia turned down the plan at Geneva.

But United Nations conferences on disarmament and atomic weapons control, now going on in London, are supposed to have under active consideration the possible diversion of atomic energy materials to peaceful uses.

So the Eisenhower plan may not be completely dead.

Foster believes his plan could be put forward without Russian participation. As he visualizes it, this international bank of atomic energy materials would operate something like the Marshall Plan.

It would function as a cold war instrument to help the non-Communist countries remain free by raising their standard of living.

The atomic energy materials lent to other countries would be subjected to a rental fee which would cover the interest on the capital investment. This would be similar to the leasing arrangement under which it is now proposed that U. S. private industry be given atomic energy materials for the development of electric power.

Foster, a former New Jersey manufacturer, was once administrator of the Marshall Plan. He has also served as undersecretary of commerce and undersecretary of defense. He gave up his Pentagon job in 1953 to become head of the Manufacturing Chemists Association and its Washington representative.

For anyone who may wonder what the chemical manufacturers are doing in atomic energy matters, it must be recognized that chemistry plays a big part in the separation and purification of atomic energy materials.

DuPont, Monsanto, Carbide & Chemical and other big industrial firms in this field have of course played a major part from the start in building and operating the $11 billion worth of U. S. Atomic Energy Commission plants.

Several recent developments in the atomic energy field have made possible the plan Foster now advocates.

The hydrogen bomb, through its greater explosive force, will release for peaceful uses more of the uranium that formerly went into the original atomic bombs.

No peacetime application of the energy released in a hydrogen bomb has yet been found. But Foster says there is no reason why research cannot develop such use.

The practical development of electric power from atomic energy is closer than many people realize. Fourteen months ago the Atomic Energy Commission initiated its program of industrial power development by private industry. The original goal was to get this development within 10 years.

One year later Duquesne Power and Light Co. of Pittsburgh announced it would invest over $15 million to build an atomic electric plant. AEC now has over 60 power research contracts.

U. S. Army has now practically completed development of an atomic "package reactor" which would develop from 1000 to 2000 kilowats of electric energy. Contracts for production of these reactors may be let soon.

Units like these are what Foster believes would be useful for an international atomic bank. He believes they would revolutionize industralization of underprivileged countries. He predicts commercial atomic power within five years.

Winston Churchill Urged to Give Up Any Idea of Retiring as Leader of Britain

By DAVID LAWRENCE

London, June 2—There is one man in England who symbolizes in his personality the great tradition that has influenced the course of modern history—the alliance of Great Britain and the United States—and he happens to be the Prime Minister at a time when decisions affecting the peace of the world are in the making.

So an opportunity to chat with Sir Winston Churchill at luncheon afforded this correspondent an intimate observation of the ability of mind of the man about whose retirement from office there is nowadays so much speculation.

The place was the private dining room at 10 Downing street—the executive office of the Prime Minister—and the only other person present was the astute Captain Christopher Soames, Parliamentary secretary and son-in-law of Sir Winston. The Prime Minister doesn't give interviews for publication and what was said on such an occasion must remain confidential. But this writer found Sir Winston alert and vigilant as he talked about the problems of the day. His keen mind is filled with the vision of what lies ahead and is poignant in recollection of mistakes of the past on the part of all our countries.

Sir Winston is eminently capable of serving for a long time, though his impatience with the unsettled problems of the world are not the same at 79 as in bygone days. This correspondent recently saw an unpublished letter penned by Winston Churchill on his twenty-fifth birthday, when he was a prisoner of war in a Boer camp in South Africa. It was written in longhand to an American relative and said: "There is so much to be done in the world and so little time to do it."

What a lot of things Winston Churchill has crowded into the more than half century that has elapsed since then! Now some of his countrymen are beginning to ask if the day is at hand when he can lay down the cares of office.

Leadership becomes fragile if a change is in prospect. For, when people start thinking in terms of a new Prime Minister, they unconsciously begin to discount the strength of the incumbent and cloak his policies with an ephemeral quality they do not possess.

For Americans, of course, the importance of the continuity of joint policies in international affairs cannot be overestimated. A British Prime Minister who is half-American by blood is a rare occurrence, and when this is coupled with a breadth of view that comes from so many years of intimate association with the top-level men of the United States government, including President Eisenhower, it seems fantastic to be reading in the press that the two countries allegedly have been at a breaking point in world affairs. There are often differences of approach and viewpoint, but the objectives are the same and the divergences are always reconciled somehow in the common interest, because they must be.

The personality of Sir Winston is bound to make itself felt in the British Cabinet on major policies though, as always, it must be the energetic and efficient members heading up the big departments of government who bear the burden of daily administration.

Sir Winston has in R. A. Butler, Chancellor of the Exchequer, a man as valuable to the Prime Minister as George Humphrey, Secretary of the Treasury, is to President Eisenhower, and there is equal confidence here in Mr. Butler's management of the economic side of governmental policy.

In foreign affairs, the Prime Minister has the deepest affection for and commands the loyal and indefatigable service of Anthony Eden. With two such staunch aides, it is small wonder that the Conservatives are hopeful that the Prime Minister will continue to stay on as long as he feels his health will permit.

Some idea of how important this is can be gained by noting an editorial in "The London Daily Express," owned by the influential Lord Beaverbrook, whose keen understanding of the United States stems from his Canadian birth and early career on the North American continent. After pointing out that speculation about the retirement of Sir Winston had been renewed because of a chance remark in a public speech, the editorial says the hope is that the Prime Minister "will banish the thought," for "he would be making a grievous mistake in retiring." It adds:

"Churchill can be certain that the people wish for no other leader. And understandable though it is that he should desire a respite—and richly though he deserves one—yet he should not take it.

"Instead he should be prepared to sacrific himself for his country in the future as he has done in the past. His countrymen will hope that he will firmly resist the inclination to withdraw himself from public life."

There is every reason why Sir Winston Churchill should carry on, especially in these times. For if he can reflect to the world his mood of peace with strength, it may restrain the impetuous and the impulsive among us who want everything settled in time for the next edition of the newspapers. There is need for his sobering and mature approach that comes with the wisdom of years. For these are troublous times that require a never-ending study of the lessons of human experience.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, June 1—The next time E. V. Durling wants to learn some quaint and trivial item of nostalgic nonsense he can spit on his hands and make his own mistakes. Me and my big mouth! This Durling, who runs a this-and-that column, recently wondered whether there ever was a veritable Mamie O'Rourke who had tripped the light fantastic on the sidewalks of New York and I ups to him and says there certainly was and she the wife of Diamond Dan O'Rourke, who ran the saloon at Pearl and Park Row which still bears his name in gold block letters and that, moreover, I, personally, danced with Mrs. O'Rourke at a racket at Tammany Hall about 1920, as, so help me, I did.

But a few days later Ed Mulrooney, late police commissioner under Jimmy Walker and an authority on such matters, said he believed the true Mamie O'Rourke had been the daughter of a patrolman who lived in the Bronx, and grew up to marry a patrolman named Jimmy Doyle (pronounced Dile), who became a detective about 1907 or 1908.

And then a lady called who identified herself as a relative of Jim Blake, a co-author of the Sidewalks of New York, the anthem of Tammany Hall if not the greater city, and insisted that Jim's heirs were still receiving substantial royalties from ASCAP. Enlarging on my version of Mamie O'Rourke and her interesting family, including her big Joe, also known as Ludwig Consumo, I had recalled by own exploit during the long parliament ow the Democratic party in 1924 in digging up blind Charlie Lawlor, then 72, at a vaudeville house in Brooklyn and guiding him down to the old Madison Square Garden to be introduced as author and hear his song blared and brayed in bold defiance of the southern Prohibitionists. Charlie gave me then his own earnest account of the genesis of the song and I had used it as a story published on June 28, 1924, in the morning Telegraph.

Now, however, this member of the Blake family and heir to some of the income from a fabulous producer, maintains that Jim Blake alone wrote the words and that Charlie Lawlor didn't write a syllable although, according to my old story, he got his inspiration as his heels hit hard on the sidewalks on his way home from a beefsteak party at Charlie Murphy's old Anawanda Club. She says, this lady of the House of Blake, that it was Jim Blake whose heels hit hard in that rhythm on the way home from that same beefsteak and I don't want to get in the midst of anything with the Blakes, the Lawlors, the several O'Rourkes and the Doyle's (pronounced Dile.)

It is granted that Charlie Lawlor did compound the music and if I were a Lawlor I would not press too hard my claim to any blame for the verse because, upon inspection in the cold light of all these many mornings after, it is by no means the least worst of a very bad school of God-awfuls. It rhymes "waltz" with New York" in one stanza and, in the other, rhymes "walk" with the same. Poetic license can go just so far.

Oh well, I didn't say that Mrs. Dan O'Rourke told me she was the Mamie O'Rourke in question but she certainly was so regarded by her friends and neighbors and the children in those early days of prohibition when I knew them all. Now Ed Mulrooney's candidate, the daughter of Patrolman O'Rourke, is challenged by another Marie O'Rourke who was a little girl about 10 and lived in Jim Blake's house on East 18th street. When she grew up she married a lawyer named Kelly. And of course little girls of that age literally did and still do dance on the sidewalks of New York.

I am disposed to call the Sidewalks of New York the perfect crime and file it away with the Dorothy Arnold case.

Mr. Mulrooney was nicely sentimental about Dan O'Rourke, recalling that Theodore Roosevelt, as police commissioner, used to prowl the town on Sunday afternoons with a sergeant named Tierney and sick Tierney on any saloon that was open and serving in violation of the law.

T. R. said the best way to get rid of an offensive law was to enforce it to death and Mulrooney says that for no special reason Dan O'Rourke was Roosevelt's favorite defendant in the achievement of this reform. Then came the Raines law which was interpreted to mean that a drink could be sold on Sunday with a meal and a court decision that a sandwich constituted a meal, which led to the invention of the papier mache sandwich. The Raines law also defined a hotel as any building with ten or more bed-rooms and that led to salacious chapters in a theme of endless interest in the metropolitan press of which the Jelke case is by no means the last.

Mr. Mulrooney said: "You mentioned Mike Salter's and Suicide Hall, but you forgot the Chatham. That was the pickpockets' club. They would lay off you in the Chatham. You could always walk out with your wallet because they went there to play and it was considered unethical to do business in a gentlemen's club.

"Something like the principle that John O'Connor maintained in St. Paul for so many years when he was chief of police and St. Paul had more safe-blowers, pickpockets, confidence men and stick-ups and less crime per capita than any other city in the United States."

Government controls, high interest rates on the financing of projects, insufficient manpower and shortages of such vital materials as steel are among the deterrents lately eliminated.

If Bradley is correct in his appraisal, then the mere motorist, looking at the nation's highways from something less than a detached view, can only murmur: "It is none too soon."

By now it is a commonplace that the country hasn't been keeping up either with the need for new highways or the maintenance of the old. Were it not for the continuing trend toward engineered turnpikes, the highway picture today would probably be much blacker.

Obviously this trend is gathering pace, and before too many years it may be possible to drive over turnpike routes from New England and New York to Denver and Dallas, as well as southward to Miami from the East and Midwest.

But these roads are financed by sale of revenue bonds to the public, not through regular government funds. In the absence of an imaginative attack on highway problems by others, the authorities who favor turnpikes are bound to carry the day. This kind of road expansion will go on.

Yet it is fair to ask the question: How far? The traveling public has shown a willingness to pay for smooth, unimpeded progress on roadways engineered to match the present day automobile. But a highway network is more than a few turnpikes, more even than a few per state.

What it gets down to is that the federal and state governments must modernize and recast their thinking to develop a truly adequate plan for financing the vast highway improvements which must go hand in hand with the growth of turnpikes.

Bradley says the bars to this sort of development are now down. It remains to be seen what public authorities can do to translate this opportunity into the reality of a fully modern highway network for the United States.

OLD FRENCH CENSOR

Our would-be censors will be interested to hear of the royal decree of King Francis I of France, issued in January, 1535. This forbade all printing whatsoever, upon pain of hanging, and ordered all bookshops to be closed. Its sponsors probably rejoiced that now the way was closed to the spread of pernicious ideas.

Alas for the censors! The good sense of the French caused this preposterous decree to be withdrawn within a month. Since then Frenchmen have not as a rule been afraid of the truth or hostile to its publication.

PHILIPPINE SUCCESS

The surrender of Luis Taruc, commander of the Huk Communist forces in the Philippines, represents a real victory for the administration of President Ramon Magsaysay. For years President Magsaysay was one of the most successful fighters against Communists. Now as leader of the Philippines he is giving the people the kind of government that will effectively rob the Reds of any hope of gain there.

The success of Magsaysay in his fight against the Huk rebels is in direct contrast to the failure of any form of government in Indo-China to do anything to keep the Communists in check there. Indo-China, under French domination, has had little substantial leadership from its own people and it may be that the French during their period of control there did little to encourage the development of such native leadership.

The Philippines, one of the world's newest independent countries, was for years in the custody of the United States. All the while our effort were aimed at preparing them for their independence—an independence which they earned and deserved after their heroic resistance to the Japanese in World War II. The fruits of our successful handling of the Philippines are evident.

ORLOFF V. WILLOUGHBY

In all the discussion of the Peress case little has been made of the decision of the United States Supreme Court in the case, Orloff vs. Willoughby, in which the Court held that the granting of a commission to a doctor was entirely within the discretion of the President of the United States and those acting under his authority.

The case was decided on March 9, 1953, and could have been a guide to the Army in the matter of Major Irving Peress, over the disposition of which the McCarthy-Stevens Hearings are being held.

Stanley J. Orloff is a physician who was lawfully inducted into the Army under the doctor-dentist draft. Orloff was not given the specialized duties nor the commissioned rank to which he claimed to be entitled. Orloff, like Peress, was put into the Army under the Universal Military Training and Service Act which authorizes the conscription of certain medical and allied specialist categories. Orloff made the point that he could only be inducted as a doctor and that if the Army did not choose to use him as such, he ought to be released from any military duty. He swore out a writ of habeas corpus against Colonel Rex E. Willoughby, Commandant of Fort Lawton, Seattle, Washington.

The Court states, in a decision written by Justice Robert Jackson:

". . . This petitioner refused information as to his membership in or association with organizations designated by the Attorney General as subversive or which advocated overthrow of the Government by force and violence. He gave as his reason that 'as a matter of conscience, I object to filling out the loyalty certificate because it involves an inquisition into my personal beliefs and views. Moreover, the inquiry into organizational affiliations employs the principle of guilt by association, to which I am vigorously opposed. Further, it is my understanding that all the organizations were listed by the Attorney General without notice or hearing which has caused the Supreme Court to invalidate it.'"

This is exactly the same situation as the Peress case, but it was handled differently. I quote further from the decision of the Court:

". . . As to the question 'Are you now or have you ever been a member of the Communist Party, U.S.A. or any Communist Organization?' He (Orloff) said, 'Federal constitutional privilege is claimed.'"

Further the Court said:

"The petitioner appears to be under the misconception that a commission is not only a matter of right, but is to be had upon his own terms."

The Army had the Orloff vs. Willoughby decision before it when the Peress case arose and became an issue between the Army and the McCarthy Committee. The Army could have used the decision in Orloff vs. Willoughby in the Peress case and there would have been no controversy, because the attitudes of Orloff and Peress toward loyalty questions were identical. The Court said:

". . . But, if he is the first to be denied a commission, it may also be that he is the first doctor to haggle about questions concerning his loyalty. . . ."

The Supreme Court held that it was not its view that Orloff himself could decide upon his own fitness. It held:

"It is argued that Orloff is being punished for having claimed a privilege which the Constitution guarantees. No one, at least no one on this Court which has repeatedly sustained assertion by Communists of the privilege against self-incrimination, questions or doubts Orloff's right to withhold facts about himself on this ground. No one believes he can be punished for doing so. But the question is whether he can at the same time take the position that to tell the truth about himself would incriminate him and that even so the President must appoint him to a post of honor and trust. We have no hesitation in answering that question 'No.'"

I have quoted enough from this decision to indicate its applicability to the Peress case. Why was it not applied? Why was he promoted from Captain to Major and given an honorable discharge and the entire country thrown into the turmoil of the McCarthy-Stevens Hearings? If the entire question is not political, why was not this decision applied rather than to have the current fracas? An explanation is needed.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

KEEPING EPILEPSY UNDER CONTROL

Notwithstanding all that has been learned about epilepsy and its treatment, there are many who do not know the early and simple test. In this test, any patient who has the usual or practically any form of epilepsy is encouraged to drink a large amount of water for by so doing he brings on an attack of epilepsy. This test does not fail. Thus, he makes sure he has true epilepsy.

"To begin with, it should be emphasized that the therapy of epilepsy includes more than is provided by drug therapy alone. Control of other factors of the disease is important. In the person who has a tendency toward attacks of epilepsy (seizures), numerous trigger mechanisms exist; for example, emotional disturbances, stomach and intestinal upsets, excessive intake of fluids, especially alcohol, constipation, frustrations of various kinds, emotional tensions and allertic episodes. Occasionally, the number of attacks will increase during some phase of the monthly period in women. Even a state of boredoom due to deadly lack of occupation or recreation may increase the tendency to seizures. In many instances, the institution of general hygenic measures and psychiatric care are more important than drugs in controlling seizures."

In utilizing the drug treatment of epilepsy, it is advisable to begin with a single drug, gradually increasing the dose until either control or maximum effect is obtained or the dose is reached beyond which toxic (poisonous) symptoms develop. Some patients respond better to one drug than another and still other patients do best on a combination of drugs.

"Medication to prevent seizures is usually prescribed three times a day. This is occasionally reduced to two doses but in some cases four or five are needed. When all spells occur at night, it is permissable to prescribe a single dose before the patient retires. For special occasions inducing stress or excitement — birthdays, holidays, and menstrual periods — it may be necessary to increase the dose temporarily." I have been quoting Dr. Meyer A. Perlstein of the Children's Neurology Clinic and Northwestern University Medical School, Chicago.

So far as drugs are concerned, phenobarbital is the drug of choice, followed closely by Dilantin Sodium. When phenobarbital controls the seizures, no other drug is needed. The dose of Sodium Dilantin varies from one grain to 1½ grains. Needless to say, these drugs must be taken under close supervision.

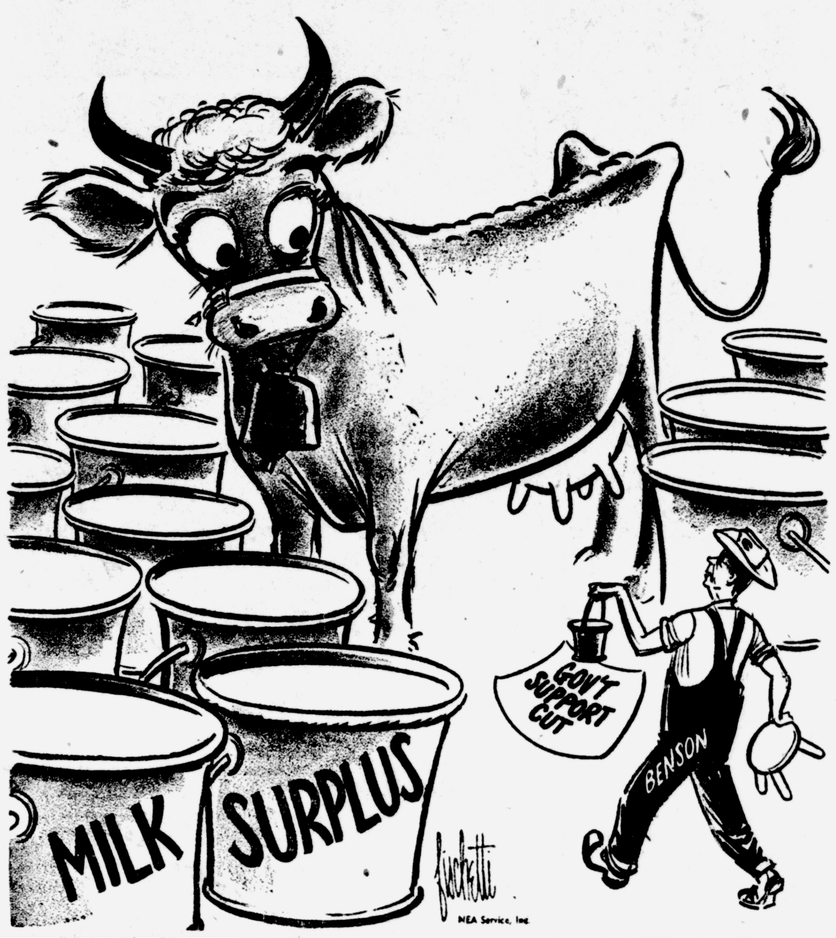
Who's Boss?



Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Corespondent

Washington, (NEA) — A new idea for an "International Atomic Energy Bank" is now being put forward by William C. Foster, president of the U. S. Manufacturing Chemists' Association.

The Foster plan calls for the loan of atomic energy materials, reactors and know-how to countries that do not have adequate power resources of their own.

It would be an extension of President Eisenhower's original proposal to the United Nations for a world pool of atomic energy, to include Soviet Russia.

The present status of President Eisenhower's proposal is not entirely clear. Russia turned down the plan at Geneva.

But United Nations conferences on disarmament and atomic weapons control, now going on in London, are supposed to have under active consideration the possible diversion of atomic energy materials to peaceful uses.

So the Eisenhower plan may not be completely dead.

Foster believes his plan could be put forward without Russian participation. As he visualizes it, this international bank of atomic energy materials would operate something like the Marshall Plan.

It would function as a cold war instrument to help the non-Communist countries remain free by raising their standard of living.

The atomic energy materials left to other countries would be subjected to a rental fee which would cover the interest on the capital investment. This would be similar to the leasing arrangement under which it is now proposed that U. S. private industry be given atomic energy materials for the development of electric power.

Foster, a former New Jersey manufacturer, was once administrator of the Marshall Plan. He has also served as undersecretary of commerce and undersecretary of defense. He gave up his Pentagon job in 1953 to become head of the Manufacturing Chemists Association and its Washington representative.

For anyone who may wonder what the chemical manufacturers are doing in atomic energy matters, it must be recognized that chemistry plays a big part in the separation and purification of atomic energy materials.

DuPont, Monsanto, Carbide & Chemical and other big industrial firms in this field have of course played a major part from the start in building and operating the $11 billion worth of U. S. Atomic Energy Commission plants.

Several recent developments in the atomic energy field have made possible the plan Foster now advocates.

The hydrogen bomb, through its greater explosive force, will release for peaceful uses more of the uranium that formerly went into the original atomic bombs.

No peacetime application of the energy released in a hydrogen bomb has yet been found. But Foster says there is no reason why research cannot develop such use.

The practical development of electric power from atomic energy is closer than many people realize. Fourteen months ago the Atomic Energy Commission initiated its program of industrial power development by private industry. The original goal was to get this development within 10 years.

One year later Duquesne Power and Light Co. of Pittsburgh announced it would invest over $15 million to build an atomic electric plant. AEC now has over 60 power research contracts.

U. S. Army has now practically completed development of an atomic "package reactor" which would develop from 1000 to 2000 kilowats of electric energy. Contracts for production of these reactors may be let soon.

Units like these are what Foster believes would be useful for an international atomic bank. He believes they would revolutionize industralization of underprivileged countries. He predicts commercial atomic power within five years.

Cat Mothers Pups

Winston Churchill Urged to Give Up Any Idea of Retiring as Leader of Britain

By DAVID LAWRENCE

London, June 2—There is one man in England who symbolizes in his personality the great tradition that has influenced the course of modern history—the alliance of Great Britain and the United States—and he happens to be the Prime Minister at a time when decisions affecting the peace of the world are in the making.

So an opportunity to chat with Sir Winston Churchill at luncheon afforded this correspondent an intimate observation of the ability of mind of the man about whose retirement from office there is nowadays so much speculation.

The place was the private dining room at 10 Downing street—the executive office of the Prime Minister—and the only other person present was the astute Captain Christopher Soames, Parliamentary secretary and son-in-law of Sir Winston. The Prime Minister doesn't give interviews for publication and what was said on such an occasion must remain confidential. But this writer found Sir Winston alert and vigilant as he talked about the problems of the day. His keen mind is filled with the vision of what lies ahead and is poignant in recollection of mistakes of the past on the part of all our countries.

Sir Winston is eminently capable of serving for a long time, though his impatience with the unsettled problems of the world are not the same at 79 as in bygone days. This correspondent recently saw an unpublished letter penned by Winston Churchill on his twenty-fifth birthday, when he was a prisoner of war in a Boer camp in South Africa. It was written in longhand to an American relative and said: "There is so much to be done in the world and so little time to do it."

What a lot of things Winston Churchill has crowded into the more than half century that has elapsed since then! Now some of his countrymen are beginning to ask if the day is at hand when he can lay down the cares of office.

Leadership becomes fragile if a change is in prospect. For, when people start thinking in terms of a new Prime Minister, they unconsciously begin to discount the strength of the incumbent and cloak his policies with an ephemeral quality they do not possess.

For Americans, of course, the importance of the continuity of joint policies in international affairs cannot be overestimated. A British Prime Minister who is half-American by blood is a rare occurrence, and when this is coupled with a breadth of view that comes from so many years of intimate association with the top-level men of the United States government, including President Eisenhower, it seems fantastic to be reading in the press that the two countries allegedly have been at a breaking point in world affairs. There are often differences of approach and viewpoint, but the objectives are the same and the divergences are always reconciled somehow in the common interest, because they must be.

The personality of Sir Winston is bound to make itself felt in the British Cabinet on major policies though, as always, it must be the energetic and efficient members heading up the big departments of government who bear the burden of daily administration.

Sir Winston has in R. A. Butler, Chancellor of the Exchequer, a man as valuable to the Prime Minister as George Humphrey, Secretary of the Treasury, is to President Eisenhower, and there is equal confidence here in Mr. Butler's management of the economic side of governmental policy.

In foreign affairs, the Prime Minister has the deepest affection for and commands the loyal and indefatigable service of Anthony Eden. With two such staunch aides, it is small wonder that the Conservatives are hopeful that the Prime Minister will continue to stay on as long as he feels his health will permit.

Some idea of how important this is can be gained by noting an editorial in "The London Daily Express," owned by the influential Lord Beaverbrook, whose keen understanding of the United States stems from his Canadian birth and early career on the North American continent. After pointing out that speculation about the retirement of Sir Winston had been renewed because of a chance remark in a public speech, the editorial says the hope is that the Prime Minister "will banish the thought," for "he would be making a grievous mistake in retiring." It adds:

"Churchill can be certain that the people wish for no other leader. And understandable though it is that he should desire a respite—and richly though he deserves one—yet he should not take it.

"Instead he should be prepared to sacrific himself for his country in the future as he has done in the past. His countrymen will hope that he will firmly resist the inclination to withdraw himself from public life."

There is every reason why Sir Winston Churchill should carry on, especially in these times. For if he can reflect to the world his mood of peace with strength, it may restrain the impetuous and the impulsive among us who want everything settled in time for the next edition of the newspapers. There is need for his sobering and mature approach that comes with the wisdom of years. For these are troublous times that require a never-ending study of the lessons of human experience.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, June 1—The next time E. V. Durling wants to learn some quaint and trivial item of nostalgic nonsense he can spit on his hands and make his own mistakes. Me and my big mouth! This Durling, who runs a this-and-that column, recently wondered whether there ever was a veritable Mamie O'Rourke who had tripped the light fantastic on the sidewalks of New York and I ups to him and says there certainly was and she the wife of Diamond Dan O'Rourke, who ran the saloon at Pearl and Park Row which still bears his name in gold block letters and that, moreover, I, personally, danced with Mrs. O'Rourke at a racket at Tammany Hall about 1920, as, so help me, I did.

But a few days later Ed Mulrooney, late police commissioner under Jimmy Walker and an authority on such matters, said he believed the true Mamie O'Rourke had been the daughter of a patrolman who lived in the Bronx, and grew up to marry a patrolman named Jimmy Doyle (pronounced Dile), who became a detective about 1907 or 1908.

And then a lady called who identified herself as a relative of Jim Blake, a co-author of the Sidewalks of New York, the anthem of Tammany Hall if not the greater city, and insisted that Jim's heirs were still receiving substantial royalties from ASCAP. Enlarging on my version of Mamie O'Rourke and her interesting family, including her big Joe, also known as Ludwig Consumo, I had recalled by own exploit during the long parliament ow the Democratic party in 1924 in digging up blind Charlie Lawlor, then 72, at a vaudeville house in Brooklyn and guiding him down to the old Madison Square Garden to be introduced as author and hear his song blared and brayed in bold defiance of the southern Prohibitionists. Charlie gave me then his own earnest account of the genesis of the song and I had used it as a story published on June 28, 1924, in the morning Telegraph.

Now, however, this member of the Blake family and heir to some of the income from a fabulous producer, maintains that Jim Blake alone wrote the words and that Charlie Lawlor didn't write a syllable although, according to my old story, he got his inspiration as his heels hit hard on the sidewalks on his way home from a beefsteak party at Charlie Murphy's old Anawanda Club. She says, this lady of the House of Blake, that it was Jim Blake whose heels hit hard in that rhythm on the way home from that same beefsteak and I don't want to get in the midst of anything with the Blakes, the Lawlors, the several O'Rourkes and the Doyle's (pronounced Dile.)

It is granted that Charlie Lawlor did compound the music and if I were a Lawlor I would not press too hard my claim to any blame for the verse because, upon inspection in the cold light of all these many mornings after, it is by no means the least worst of a very bad school of God-awfuls. It rhymes "waltz" with New York" in one stanza and, in the other, rhymes "walk" with the same. Poetic license can go just so far.

Oh well, I didn't say that Mrs. Dan O'Rourke told me she was the Mamie O'Rourke in question but she certainly was so regarded by her friends and neighbors and the children in those early days of prohibition when I knew them all. Now Ed Mulrooney's candidate, the daughter of Patrolman O'Rourke, is challenged by another Marie O'Rourke who was a little girl about 10 and lived in Jim Blake's house on East 18th street. When she grew up she married a lawyer named Kelly. And of course little girls of that age literally did and still do dance on the sidewalks of New York.

I am disposed to call the Sidewalks of New York the perfect crime and file it away with the Dorothy Arnold case.

Mr. Mulrooney was nicely sentimental about Dan O'Rourke, recalling that Theodore Roosevelt, as police commissioner, used to prowl the town on Sunday afternoons with a sergeant named Tierney and sick Tierney on any saloon that was open and serving in violation of the law.

T. R. said the best way to get rid of an offensive law was to enforce it to death and Mulrooney says that for no special reason Dan O'Rourke was Roosevelt's favorite defendant in the achievement of this reform. Then came the Raines law which was interpreted to mean that a drink could be sold on Sunday with a meal and a court decision that a sandwich constituted a meal, which led to the invention of the papier mache sandwich. The Raines law also defined a hotel as any building with ten or more bed-rooms and that led to salacious chapters in a theme of endless interest in the metropolitan press of which the Jelke case is by no means the last.

Mr. Mulrooney said: "You mentioned Mike Salter's and Suicide Hall, but you forgot the Chatham. That was the pickpockets' club. They would lay off you in the Chatham. You could always walk out with your wallet because they went there to play and it was considered unethical to do business in a gentlemen's club.

"Something like the principle that John O'Connor maintained in St. Paul for so many years when he was chief of police and St. Paul had more safe-blowers, pickpockets, confidence men and stick-ups and less crime per capita than any other city in the United States."

Military Ballot Applications Are Being Taken Now

Applications for military ballots are being accepted now from servicemen, their wives, parents and children living with them while they are away in the armed forces.

According to a press release, those who fail to make application cannot vote at the general election on November 2, 1954.

The announcement said that application may be made to the Ulster County Board of Elections, John street, or to the Division for Servicemen's Voting, State of New York, Albany 1, New York.

If application is made to the division, it must be done before October 22, and to the board of elections before October 23.

Provision for military ballots may be made by servicemen in the armed forces within or outside the United States.

How to Proceed

The procedure is as follows:

Every serviceman desiring a military ballot must make a written application, on (a) a post card form issued by this Division; or on (b) the form provided under the Federal Voting Law (USWBC Form No. 1 and Standard Form No. 76); or on (c) any other form of post card or letter, provided the serviceman states the essential data: his name, his rank, his military and home addresses. The application must be signed by the serviceman.

The spouse, parent or child of a serviceman, who resides in the same election district as the serviceman and who accompanies him, may likewise vote a military ballot. The application for the military ballot for such persons is the same as that used by the serviceman.

To Mail Ballots Oct. 11

Military ballots will be sent to qualified applicants by the Board of Elections of the home county of residence of the applicant. Military ballots will be mailed commencing October 11, 1954.

These military ballots, after being voted, must be inserted in a ballot envelope which is furnished to the military voter. The statement on the outside of the envelope must be completely filled in. The serviceman or the spouse, parent or child of a serviceman must subscribe his name to the statement. The ballot must be voted no later than November 2, 1954, and must be mailed and post marked no later than November 2, 1954.

Military ballots, sealed in the ballot envelope, must be returned in the larger accompanying envelope addressed to the Division for Servicemen's Voting, Albany 1, New York, via air mail, free of postage, to be received no later than noon, November 23, 1954.

An enrollment blank will be mailed with the ballot so that the military voter may enroll in a political party. The enrollment blank should be returned in the ballot envelope.

Military Ballot Applications Are Being Taken Now

Applications for military ballots are being accepted now from servicemen, their wives, parents and children living with them while they are away in the armed forces.

According to a press release, those who fail to make application cannot vote at the general election on November 2, 1954.

The announcement said that application may be made to the Ulster County Board of Elections, John street, or to the Division for Servicemen's Voting, State of New York, Albany 1, New York.

If application is made to the division, it must be done before October 22, and to the board of elections before October 23.

Provision for military ballots may be made by servicemen in the armed forces within or outside the United States.

How to Proceed

The procedure is as follows:

Every serviceman desiring a military ballot must make a written application, on (a) a post card form issued by this Division; or on (b) the form provided under the Federal Voting Law (USWBC Form No. 1 and Standard Form No. 76); or on (c) any other form of post card or letter, provided the serviceman states the essential data: his name, his rank, his military and home addresses. The application must be signed by the serviceman.

The spouse, parent or child of a serviceman, who resides in the same election district as the serviceman and who accompanies him, may likewise vote a military ballot. The application for the military ballot for such persons is the same as that used by the serviceman.

To Mail Ballots Oct. 11

Military ballots will be sent to qualified applicants by the Board of Elections of the home county of residence of the applicant. Military ballots will be mailed commencing October 11, 1954.

These military ballots, after being voted, must be inserted in a ballot envelope which is furnished to the military voter. The statement on the outside of the envelope must be completely filled in. The serviceman or the spouse, parent or child of a serviceman must subscribe his name to the statement. The ballot must be voted no later than November 2, 1954, and must be mailed and post marked no later than November 2, 1954.

Military ballots, sealed in the ballot envelope, must be returned in the larger accompanying envelope addressed to the Division for Servicemen's Voting, Albany 1, New York, via air mail, free of postage, to be received no later than noon, November 23, 1954.

An enrollment blank will be mailed with the ballot so that the military voter may enroll in a political party. The enrollment blank should be returned in the ballot envelope.

Death Rate

In 1900, about 200 children out of every 1,000 live births died before they were 1 year old, compared to today's rate of around 20 per 1,000 in several countries.

Mrs. Lebron and her three male colleagues—Rafael Cancel Miranda, Andres Fugueroa Cordero and Irving Flores Rodriguez — had pleas of innocent entered for them by the court at their arraignment March 5.

They have been held in jail, in lieu of bonds of $100,000 each, charged on five counts each with assault with intent to kill and five counts each with assault with a dangerous weapon. Each faces as much as 75 years in prison.

Cancel, a towering six-footer, sat beside Mrs. Lebron, who was trim in a light gray suit and low-heel patent leather pumps.

realization of their expansionist aspirations."

The United States has listed a total of $48,895,235,000 worth of lend-lease distributed during the war and the postwar period to 43 allied nations. Of this, the British Commonwealth received $31,384,810,000, and Russia the second largest recipient, got $10,982,089,000.

Britain settled her debt in 1946, paying $650,000,000 after account was taken on reverse lend-lease charges. Of the nearly eight billion dollars in reverse lend-lease received by the Uuited States, more than six billions came from Britain.

The United States has demanded over 800 million dollars from Russia in settlement. The Russians reportedly have countered with an offer of 300 million dollars. The two countries are still disputing the matter, although the Kremlin has okayed payment for part of the shipment made. U. S. Treasury officials told Congress last February Russia was $15,584,369 behind on interest payments on this part. The first payment on the principal is due July 1.

Russia has returned to the United States 47 navy and merchant ships loaned her under the wartime program. U. S. officials say 634 ships remain to be returned or accounted for.

New York Man Held on Charge

Eugene Walsh, 20, of 420 East 89th street, New York, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Detectives Clarence Brophy and Frank Sammons on charges of grand larceny, second degree, and burglary, third degree.

A Poughkeepsie detective joined the two local officers, and they reported finding Walsh at a Washington avenue address where he had taken a room. The arrest was reported shortly after 5 p. m.

Clothing found in his possession, the officers said, included several pairs of trousers, shirts, socks and two pairs of shoes, which, he told them, he had bought at an uptown store. All was brought to police headquarters.

WEEKLY FOOD REVIEW

(By The Associated Press)

A good many Americans will sit down to a Sunday dinner of chuck roast if housewives heed the advice of most of the nation's food store men this week.

Chuck roast, either boneless or with the bone in, is going to be the No. 1 feature in the meat line. Prices will be down around four to six cents a pound from a week ago.

Another favorite weekend feature will be round roast. And a number of markets will lower prices on sirloin steak and round steak. Pork loin and pork roast will get top billing here and there.

Leg of Lamb Lower

Leg of-lamb will be lower everywhere, with reductions ranging from two to six cents a pound. Much of this will be the tasty spring lamb; one chain store official commented that winter lamb is getting scarce.

A large number of stores are making bacon a feature this week. The eggs to go with it will cost about the same as last week.

In the chicken line, you'll find the best buys in stewing fowl, the food experts say.

Good Vegetable Buys

There's a fine variety of vegetables that fall in the reasonably priced classification — cabbage, cucumbers, peppers, cauliflower, squash, spinach, broccoli, potatoes, lettuce, rhubarb, green onions and radishes. More tomatoes are coming out of the south, and a number of stores are featuring them. Asparagus is becoming more plentiful and is selling at around the lowest prices so far this year. Storekeepers call beets a good buy.

There are plenty of watermelons, but quality and prices cover a wide range. California cantaloupes are being offered by many stores. Peaches are becoming a bit more common. Strawberries are in good supply and prices are described as moderate.

Some of the big roasters of coffee are saying that they don't see any further price hikes coming—at least in the near future. However, there's still a chance that retail prices will be boosted once more; some stores have not yet passed on the last rise of a nickel a pound in the wholesale price of vacuum-packed coffee. Incidentally, General Foods Corp. said this week that instant coffee has taken over about 28 per cent of the coffee market. The switch to instant apparently has been quickened by the rise in coffee prices; the soluble stuff is said to be cheaper.

Leibhardt

Leibhardt, June 2—Merritt A. Kipp of West Hurley visited his friends in this area last week. Alex Lypka and his mother entertained relatives from New Jersey during the weekend.

Susan F. Quick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Quick, Jr., of Pataukunk, spent Wednesday night with her grandmother Mrs. Herman Quick.

The Markles entertained Sunday night friends at their home.

Mrs. Homer Hornbeck and children and sister-in-law Mrs. Ralph Hornbeck visited in Kingston last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Markle called Thursday on the latter's cousin Mrs. Raymond Markle of Acorn Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Chrisey and family of Albany visited the former's mother Mrs. M. Chrisey of Rochester Center during the weekend.

Mrs. Russell Gray of Rochester Center is reported to be in the hospital in Ellenville.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Goldman of New York spent the weekend with the latter's sister Mrs. Lizzie Shepherd of Rochester Center.

Courteous Thieves

Norfolk, Va. (AP)—Jeff Dane, Norfolk television emcee, recently returned to his parked car and found the following note: "Sorry, they wouldn't fit. We would have put them back on but we have to try someone else." The note, signed by a "Mr. X," was lying in two hubcaps that had been pried off Dane's car and left lying beside the vehicle.

Our customers have repeatedly proven the truth in the old saying, "A satisfied customer is the best form of advertising." We can safely say that hundreds of our newer customers came here because they were sent, in confidence, by a former purchaser.

My wife and I are fully aware that without the unselfish continued help given us by our customers, our friends, we could never have grown to the largest Wayside Furniture Store in the county. We sincerely appreciate "the lift" you all have given us, and want to show our sincerity of feeling in a concrete way. Therefore we are repeating our annual APPRECIATION SALE.

During the sale any former customer or their friends will receive a full 10% discount on any purchase made—Budget Payment Plan may be used if desired.

WEEKLY FOOD REVIEW

(By The Associated Press)

A good many Americans will sit down to a Sunday dinner of chuck roast if housewives heed the advice of most of the nation's food store men this week.

Chuck roast, either boneless or with the bone in, is going to be the No. 1 feature in the meat line. Prices will be down around four to six cents a pound from a week ago.

Another favorite weekend feature will be round roast. And a number of markets will lower prices on sirloin steak and round steak. Pork loin and pork roast will get top billing here and there.

Leg of Lamb Lower

Leg of-lamb will be lower everywnere, with reductions ranging from two to six cents a pound. Much of this will be the tasty spring lamb; one chain store official commented that winter lamb is getting scarce.

A large number of stores are making bacon a feature this week. The eggs to go with it will cost about the same as last week.

In the chicken line, you'll find the best buys in stewing fowl, the food experts say.

Good Vegetable Buys

There's a fine variety of vegetables that fall in the reasonably priced classification — cabbage, cucumbers, peppers, cauliflower, squash, spinach, broccoli, potatoes, lettuce, rhubarb, green onions and radishes. More tomatoes are coming out of the south, and a number of stores are featuring them. Asparagus is becoming more plentiful and is selling at around the lowest prices so far this year. Storekeepers call beets a good buy.

There are plenty of watermelons, but quality and prices cover a wide range. California cantaloupes are being offered by many stores. Peaches are becoming a bit more common. Strawberries are in good supply and prices are described as moderate.

Some of the big roasters of coffee are saying that they don't see any further price hikes coming—at least in the near future. However, there's still a chance that retail prices will be boosted once more; some stores have not yet passed on the last rise of a nickel a pound in the wholesale price of vacuum-packed coffee. Incidentally, General Foods Corp. said this week that instant coffee has taken over about 28 per cent of the coffee market. The switch to instant apparently has been quickened by the rise in coffee prices; the soluble stuff is said to be cheaper.

Leibhardt

Leibhardt, June 2—Merritt A. Kipp of West Hurley visited his friends in this area last week. Alex Lypka and his mother entertained relatives from New Jersey during the weekend.

Susan F. Quick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Quick, Jr., of Pataukunk, spent Wednesday night with her grandmother Mrs. Herman Quick.

The Markles entertained Sunday night friends at their home.

Mrs. Homer Hornbeck and children and sister-in-law Mrs. Ralph Hornbeck visited in Kingston last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Markle called Thursday on the latter's cousin Mrs. Raymond Markle of Acorn Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Chrisey and family of Albany visited the former's mother Mrs. M. Chrisey of Rochester Center during the weekend.

Mrs. Russell Gray of Rochester Center is reported to be in the hospital in Ellenville.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Goldman of New York spent the weekend with the latter's sister Mrs. Lizzie Shepherd of Rochester Center.

Courteous Thieves

Norfolk, Va. (AP)—Jeff Dane, Norfolk television emcee, recently returned to his parked car and found the following note: "Sorry, they wouldn't fit. We would have put them back on but we have to try someone else." The note, signed by a "Mr. X," was lying in two hubcaps that had been pried off Dane's car and left lying beside the vehicle.

Nuclear Planes May Give Margin

Atlantic City, N. J., June 3 (AP)—A Defense Department atomic energy expert said today nuclear-powered airplanes may provide a great new worldwide margin of U. S. air supremacy within 10 years "or sooner."

"The implications of nuclear air power are many and far-reaching," Robert LeBaron told the Edison Electric Institute. "Atomic-powered airplanes will greatly extend our air supremacy. These developments may be some time off, but they are real and can emerge within the next decade or sooner."

LeBaron is assistant to the secretary of defense for atomic energy and is chairman of the Military Liaison Committee to the Atomic Energy Commission.

In his prepared speech, LeBaron also forecast development of "mobile military atomic power plants" to provide "simpler transportation and service of supply to land armies."

As for the present, LeBaron said the nation's "military requirements for atomic weapons" are continuing to expand.

"There is little hope of reaching a 'saturation stockpile' in these uncertain times," he added. "Our only practical course is to continue the large expansion now under way at top priority."

They expand to about 20 feet at maximum height, most of them bursting at 80,000 feet.

McCutcheon, commander of the Saugerties Memorial Post 5034, VFW, and Mrs. John E. Drewes, chaplain of the auxiliary. Mrs. John Prendergast, president of the auxiliary, placed the wreath on the monument. 250 Persons Attend Firemen's Benefit Saugerties, June 1—More than 250 persons attended the first annual spring dance benefit for the Malden-West Camp Fire Company, Inc., at Bigelow Hall, Malden.

The response and support of the residents of the fire district and friends in the outlying areas has added inspiration in addition to much needed financial backing to the newly formed fire company which initiates its building program in the weeks to come.

Those on the entertainment program who donated their services included Harry Freligh and Fred Carney, novelty singers with guitar; Belinda Terpening, tiny tot drum majorette; Charles Teetsel, balladeer with guitar; and a young ballet act under the direction of Andria Viviana consisting of Joyce Vanderbeck, Patricia Paradise and Janet Vanderbeck.

The music for square and round dancing was supplied by Jimmy O'Connor and his orchestra. A moment of silence was observed for the late Poultney Bigelow, sage of Malden and donor of the hall which bore his name.

Johnny Saxton Held

New York, June 3 (AP)—Johnny Saxton, 23-year-old topflight welterweight boxer, was booked last night on an anti-weapons charge after he allegedly used a loaded .38-caliber revolver to threaten his bride of a few months. Searching the couple's seven-room ranch home in Flushing, Queens, police found a loaded .38-caliber weapon in a riding boot in a bedroom closet. Having no license to keep the revolver, Saxton was booked on violation of the Sullivan Law. The boxer will be arraigned today in Ridgewood, Queens, Felony Court.

New Paltz Is Given Recreation Allocation

Albany, June 2—The Village of New Paltz has been allocated $262.40 in State-aid for a recreation project for a 12-month period, the New York State Youth Commission announced today.

An application for State-aid submitted by Mayor Robert Reid indicates that the village will spend a total of $524.80 during the year to provide a recreation program. Activities to be provided jointly with the town of New Paltz include arts and crafts, baseball, archery, swimming, organized games and social dancing. Facilities to be used include New Paltz Central High School and The Campus, State Teachers College.

The agency responsible for the conduct of this program is the recreation committee of which Francis J. Connally is director of recreation.

The village of New Paltz is one of more than 830 municipalities that have participated in the State Youth Commission's recreation program. This is the first year that the village and the state have joined in a program to provide wholesome recreation activities for the youth of the community.

Will Break Ground

Albany, June 3 (AP)—Ground will be broken tomorrow for a new national guard armory in Bayshore, the guard announced today.

Pilot Crashes His Jet, Walks Away

Newburgh, June 3 (AP)—1st Lt. Jack Jeangerard of Wilmete, Ill., crashed landed a burning jet interceptor yesterday and walked away unharmed. It was his 27th birthday.

The plane caught fire as Jeangerard was taking off from nearby Stewart Field. Another pilot saw the fire and radioded an alarm. Jeangerard promptly came down on the end of the runway.

A few feet more and he would have crashed through a fence. A few feet higher and he would have come down in a thick woods.

Girl, 14, Clings To Life; Assailant Sought by Police

New York, June 3 (AP)—Fourteen-year-old Dorothy Westwater clung to life today as police sought the assailant who beat, stabbed and raped her as she left for school yesterday morning.

After completing eight hours of surgery last night, a Bellevue Hospital spokesman said that although the girl's condition remained critical, there was "a good possibility that Dorothy will pull through."

Dorothy, a parochial high school freshman, was waylaid in the hallway of her Manhattan tenement home. She was found bleeding and unconscious—her skull fractured and with stab wounds of the head, back, and neck. Beside ripping her clothing and raping her, police said, the attacker tried to strangle his victim.

The blonde girl, nicknamed "Sugar" and described as "a quiet girl and a perfect lady," was found by a woman neighbor after a man pointed in the hallway and muttered to her, "she's sick."

Was Carrying Object

The neighbor said the man was carrying what appeared to be a length of pipe. Dorothy's head injuries were inflicted by a blunt instrument.

After talking to the neighbor, police said, they were looking for a man with a mop of black hair, wearing baggy pants and a windbreaker. They did not identify the man, but said he was a "known degenerate" with a record of sex offenses.

Two men questioned last night apparently were not connected with the savage assault. One man, identified as Frank Rivera, 24, was booked on a charge of simple assault, a misdemeanor. He was accused of having molested a 13-year-old girl in the same neighborhood. The other man, not identified, was released.

The attack on Dorothy took place only two blocks away from where Marion Brown, 17, was slain two months ago. Dorothy's home is at 435 E. 66th street.

The Brown girl lived at 334 E. 65th street she was stabbed in the back during the early morning hours in the hallway of her tenement home. Her slaying remains unsolved.

Red Cross Takes Immediate Action In Carrier Blast

Red Cross volunteers were immediately on the scene at the explosion and fire aboard the aircraft carrier Bennington, May 26, according to a mailgram received by Mrs. Samuel J. Adams, chairman of Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross.

The message pointed out that full facilities of the Red Cross blood centers in New York city and New England were offered to the commander of the naval hospital at Newport.

The communique was sent by Harold B. Nearman, manager, eastern area, American Red Cross, Alexandria, Va. Upon receiving it, Mrs. Adams pointed out that relief of human need resulting from disasters is one of the primary responsibilities of the Red Cross.

The mailgram further explained that:

"The hospital reported that a sufficient supply of blood and serum albumin was available for immediate use but asked American Red Cross to stand by in the event of future need. Meanwhile, the Newport, R. I. Chapter established canteen service for servicemen's dependents at Quonset Point Naval Base Auditorium and listed rooms for dependents of injured servicemen.

Six Red Cross staff members are now at the scene of the USS Bennington disaster. Twenty-five Newport Chapter volunteers are making surgical dressings at the navy's request and 400 volunteers gave blood at the hospital following a public appeal. Newport Chapter is furnishing 16 nurse's aides on navy request and the chapter's motor service is transporting dependents."

The bearings for propeller shafts of many ships are made of hard, tropical wood.

Red Cross Takes Immediate Action In Carrier Blast

Red Cross volunteers were immediately on the scene at the explosion and fire aboard the aircraft carrier Bennington, May 26, according to a mailgram received by Mrs. Samuel J. Adams, chairman of Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross.

The message pointed out that full facilities of the Red Cross blood centers in New York city and New England were offered to the commander of the naval hospital at Newport.

The communique was sent by Harold B. Nearman, manager, eastern area, American Red Cross, Alexandria, Va. Upon receiving it, Mrs. Adams pointed out that relief of human need resulting from disasters is one of the primary responsibilities of the Red Cross.

The mailgram further explained that:

"The hospital reported that a sufficient supply of blood and serum albumin was available for immediate use but asked American Red Cross to stand by in the event of future need. Meanwhile, the Newport, R. I. Chapter established canteen service for servicemen's dependents at Quonset Point Naval Base Auditorium and listed rooms for dependents of injured servicemen.

Six Red Cross staff members are now at the scene of the USS Bennington disaster. Twenty-five Newport Chapter volunteers are making surgical dressings at the navy's request and 400 volunteers gave blood at the hospital following a public appeal. Newport Chapter is furnishing 16 nurse's aides on navy request and the chapter's motor service is transporting dependents."

The bearings for propeller shafts of many ships are made of hard, tropical wood.

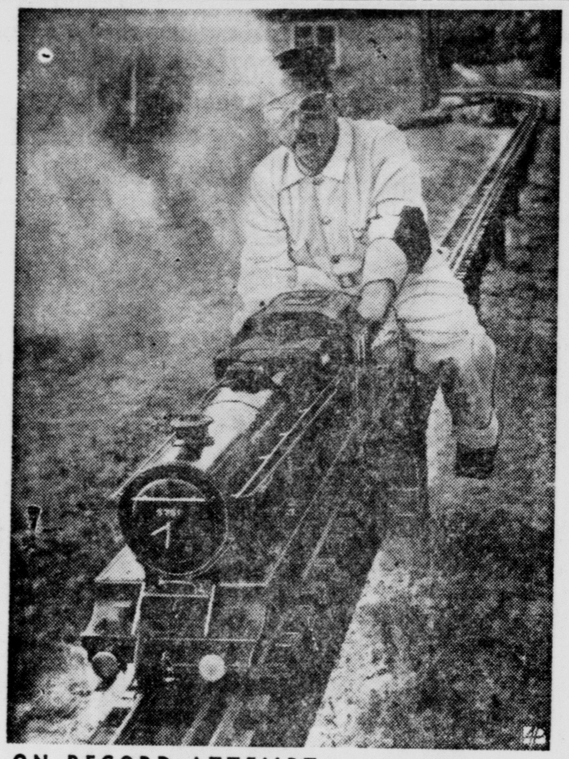
Why We Say--

What used to be a parlor in homes, a room set aside for meeting guests, is now called a living room. Parlor got its name from French, where the word "parler" means to speak—since the parlor was the conversation room for guests. Incidentally the drawing room actually meant withdrawing room.

Wilson's Condition 'Fair'

The condition of Dr. Harold A. Wilson of 71 Maiden Lane was reported to be apparently fair at Kingston Hospital this afternoon. According to his personal nurse, Dr. Wilson is "holding his own." The local physician was admitted to the hospital last Friday.



ON RECORD ATTEMPT— J. Austen-Walton, British amateur railroader, tries for world distance record of 100 miles for five-inch gauge models. He failed but made 60 mph. speed.

Condon Says . . .

Thomas A. Morgan, listed two instances, however, in which it said that Oppenheimer, at Condon's instigation, had intervened in behalf of persons whose loyalty had been questioned.

The report stated that Oppenheimer, in 1949, had confirmed before the Un-American Activities Committee the substance of a previous interview with a federal security officer in which he had characterized Dr. Bernard Peters as a "dangerous Red and former Communist."

"At this time," the report asserted, "Dr. Peters was on the staff of the University of Rochester. Dr. Oppenheimer, as a result of protestations by Dr. Condon, Dr. Peters himself, and by other scientists, then wrote a letter for publication to the Rochester newspapers, which in effect, repudiated his testimony, given in secret session."

Peters now is a research physicist in Bombay, India.

The other mention of Condon came in reference to Giovanni Rossi Lomanitz, who had worked on the atomic bomb project with Oppenheimer.

The board said it had found Oppenheimer knew Lomanitz "had been very much a Red" and that in 1943, when Lomanitz was scheduled to be inducted into the armed forces, Condon had written to Oppenheimer "about it in a great sense of outrage."

As a result, the board contended, Oppenheimer protested Lomanitz' induction.

Sarasin's request dealt technically with Thailand, but actually Thailand was hopeful the UN could do something to halt the Communists in Indochina.

The other mention of Condon came in reference to Giovanni Rossi Lomanitz, who had worked on the atomic bomb project with Oppenheimer.

The board said it had found Oppenheimer knew Lomanitz "had been very much a Red" and that in 1943, when Lomanitz was scheduled to be inducted into the armed forces, Condon had written to Oppenheimer "about it in a great sense of outrage."

As a result, the board contended, Oppenheimer protested Lomanitz' induction.

Local CE Groups Given Awards at State Convention

Christian Endeavor groups from two Kingston churches won awards at the state CE convention at Middletown during the weekend, and a local religious education director was elected a regional director by the group.

First prize for the best "Walking Float" in the parade was awarded the CE Society of the Old Dutch Church. The prize is one all-expense trip to the summer assembly.

Junior Christian Endeavor Society of the Reformed Church of the Comforter won first prize for the best scrap book entered in competition.

Is Named Director

Miss Patricia A. Moore, director of religious education for the Old Dutch Church, was elected West Hudson regional director by the state board.

An estimated 500 young people attended evening sessions, and more than 300 attended the daily conferences at the convention, held May 28 through 31, with the First Congregational Church of Middletown as host church. Russell S. Gowdey was re-elected state president, and Dr. Daniel Poling was featured speaker. Among the Kingston participants were Miss Margaret Danford, a soloist, and Richard Talleur, song leader.

What a flavor!

"Honestly, the freshest, sweetest spread I can buy... margarine or anything else. My family loves it, Mrs. Filbert!"

What a woman!

"It's my own margarine recipe ... and I put flavor first. Just see how your family goes for it." Mrs. M. V. Filbert, Pres.

● So fresh. So fresh. So sweet. Did any spread ever taste this good to you before? "It's because I'm so persnickety about what goes into it," says Mrs. Filbert. So tender it spreads ice-cold in one satiny sweep. So delicious folks say they like it better than any other spread—margarine or anything else! Eat some Mrs. Filbert's today.

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

More confusion every day. Meat, then butter! Now coffee.

We hear a proprietor bounced the headwaiter. No, he was not a Communist. The boss smelled coffee on his breath.

Mr. Hutton

You remember the "bad old days" when coffee was 20c a pound. Now one buck! Why? Some say the growers are holding back the supply. At home, the Government buys wheat to keep the price of bread up for Mama: Coffee producers keep prices up for their Mamas. Why squawk? It's an even break.

The producers of coffee and wheat are organized. The "Mamas" are not.

Franklin, the First wanted to be Papa for the farmers for their votes. He got a lot of them and the taxpayers paid the bill.

It's a question of supply and demand.

The coffee growers first limited the supply—and that's the cream in your coffee. While we killed little pigs, they dumped coffee into the ocean. Now the demand is greater than the supply.

Our farmers don't limit the supply. The Government buys up the supply, stuffs it in warehouses, holds up the price; the consumers pay once and the taxpayers pay twice.

If the Government were to sell, little by little, the warehouse holdings, it would bust the food business wide open.

How is Ike to get out of this mess? No one knows. But remember, he didn't put the mess on the books.

Thornton Is Freed

New York, June 3 (AP)—Walter Thornton, publisher of a model catalogue, has been freed of all charges accusing him of improperly accepting some $600,000 from parents as fees for publishing children's photos aimed at getting modeling jobs. Queens County Judge Peter T. Farrell yesterday dismissed grand larceny charges against Thornton as well as conspiracy and larceny counts against five women associated with him in the model work. Farrell said the prosecution at their trial had failed to show Thornton and the woman had violated any law. But the judge termed Thornton's methods "sharp and reprehensible" and said he "took advantage of a very human frailty—the pride that every parent has in his or her child."

Actress Gets Divorce

Santa Monica, Calif., June 3 (AP)—Shelly Winters has divorced her Italian actor-husband, Vittorio Gassman, who, she said, admitted he was tempermentally unsuited for marriage. The actress, who charged cruelty, testified in Superior Court yesterday that Gassman once told her: "If you want to be married to a European you have to live where your husband lives and you have to give him a great deal of freedom." I told him," Miss Winters said, "that was not the kind of marriage I wanted." With her interlocutory decree she got custody of their 15-month-old daughter, Vittoria Gina, and a property settlement.

Franklin, the First wanted to be Papa for the farmers for their votes. He got a lot of them and the taxpayers paid the bill.

It's a question of supply and demand.

The coffee growers first limited the supply—and that's the cream in your coffee. While we killed little pigs, they dumped coffee into the ocean. Now the demand is greater than the supply.

Our farmers don't limit the supply. The Government buys up the supply, stuffs it in warehouses, holds up the price; the consumers pay once and the taxpayers pay twice.

If the Government were to sell, little by little, the warehouse holdings, it would bust the food business wide open.

How is Ike to get out of this mess? No one knows. But remember, he didn't put the mess on the books.

Thornton Is Freed

New York, June 3 (AP)—Walter Thornton, publisher of a model catalogue, has been freed of all charges accusing him of improperly accepting some $600,000 from parents as fees for publishing children's photos aimed at getting modeling jobs. Queens County Judge Peter T. Farrell yesterday dismissed grand larceny charges against Thornton as well as conspiracy and larceny counts against five women associated with him in the model work. Farrell said the prosecution at their trial had failed to show Thornton and the woman had violated any law. But the judge termed Thornton's methods "sharp and reprehensible" and said he "took advantage of a very human frailty—the pride that every parent has in his or her child."

Actress Gets Divorce

Santa Monica, Calif., June 3 (AP)—Shelly Winters has divorced her Italian actor-husband, Vittorio Gassman, who, she said, admitted he was tempermentally unsuited for marriage. The actress, who charged cruelty, testified in Superior Court yesterday that Gassman once told her: "If you want to be married to a European you have to live where your husband lives and you have to give him a great deal of freedom." I told him," Miss Winters said, "that was not the kind of marriage I wanted." With her interlocutory decree she got custody of their 15-month-old daughter, Vittoria Gina, and a property settlement.

Air Raid Warning

to telephone police or fire departments or to use the telephones excepting in the "gravest emergency" during the June 14 test period.

First Audible Warning

The test will be the first audible air raid warning to be sounded in Kingston since World War 2.

Preliminary tests of the air raid warning signals will be held in Kingston on Monday, June 7, at 10 a. m. These are solely for the purpose of familiarizing people with the signals as well as testing the audibility. There will be no public participation in the June 7 test.

The "red" warning will be nine blasts of the alarm signals, repeated twice, in the city of Kingston. In other communities—Port Ewen, Ellenville, Highland, New Paltz, Rosendale, Saugerties, Wallkill, Shandaken, Phoenicia, Pine Hill and Oliverea—the "red" signal will be as announced by the local Civil Defense director.

All-Clear Signal

"White" all-clear signal in the city of Kingston will be five blasts, and in other communities as announced by the local director. Both these signals will be heard on Monday, June 7, and again on Monday, June 14. Public participation is asked in the June 14 warning.

Col. Hanstein stated that Civil Defense authorities hope that the day of the nation-wide test the people will have learned the rules for survival during an air-raid and will cooperate to the fullest. It is also expected that schools will use the opportunity to put into effect their air-raid protection plans.

Of Short Duration

The public participation phase of this exercise will be of short duration and will not cause undue hardship or inconvenience, Col. Hanstein said.

Commenting on the importance of not using the telephone during the test period, the CD director explained that telephone lines and all public services will be engaged in vital activities, and the cooperation of the public is essential to the success of these tests.

"It is most urgent that the public retain a calm confidence in the planned exercise and not become excited or confused," Col. Hanstein said. "The Ulster-Kingston Civil Defense Council has carefully provided for all emergencies and will carry out these plans during the exercise.

"Remember, the test signals on Monday, June 7—no public participation, but the alarms will be sounded. Do not telephone police, fire departments, newspapers, radio stations, or the Ulster-Kingston Civil Defense Council."

Island Yields Treasure

Stockholm, June 3 (AP)—A little island near Stockholm has yielded a rich collection of decorative eighth century glassware, Dr. Wilhelm Holmquist, antiquarian of the Swedish Historical Museum, announced today. Large quantities of silver and bronze objects, ceramics, elegant padlocks of bronze and iron, arrowheads, buttons and coins were found on the same islet, in Lake Maelar. "It seems we have struck upon a rich eighth century trading house," Dr. Holmquist said.

Air Raid Warning

to telephone police or fire departments or to use the telephones excepting in the "gravest emergency" during the June 14 test period.

First Audible Warning

The test will be the first audible air raid warning to be sounded in Kingston since World War 2.

Preliminary tests of the air raid warning signals will be held in Kingston on Monday, June 7, at 10 a. m. These are solely for the purpose of familiarizing people with the signals as well as testing the audibility. There will be no public participation in the June 7 test.

The "red" warning will be nine blasts of the alarm signals, repeated twice, in the city of Kingston. In other communities—Port Ewen, Ellenville, Highland, New Paltz, Rosendale, Saugerties, Wallkill, Shandaken, Phoenicia, Pine Hill and Oliverea—the "red" signal will be as announced by the local Civil Defense director.

All-Clear Signal

"White" all-clear signal in the city of Kingston will be five blasts, and in other communities as announced by the local director. Both these signals will be heard on Monday, June 7, and again on Monday, June 14. Public participation is asked in the June 14 warning.

Col. Hanstein stated that Civil Defense authorities hope that the day of the nation-wide test the people will have learned the rules for survival during an air-raid and will cooperate to the fullest. It is also expected that schools will use the opportunity to put into effect their air-raid protection plans.

Of Short Duration

The public participation phase of this exercise will be of short duration and will not cause undue hardship or inconvenience, Col. Hanstein said.

Commenting on the importance of not using the telephone during the test period, the CD director explained that telephone lines and all public services will be engaged in vital activities, and the cooperation of the public is essential to the success of these tests.

"It is most urgent that the public retain a calm confidence in the planned exercise and not become excited or confused," Col. Hanstein said. "The Ulster-Kingston Civil Defense Council has carefully provided for all emergencies and will carry out these plans during the exercise.

"Remember, the test signals on Monday, June 7—no public participation, but the alarms will be sounded. Do not telephone police, fire departments, newspapers, radio stations, or the Ulster-Kingston Civil Defense Council."

Island Yields Treasure

Stockholm, June 3 (AP)—A little island near Stockholm has yielded a rich collection of decorative eighth century glassware, Dr. Wilhelm Holmquist, antiquarian of the Swedish Historical Museum, announced today. Large quantities of silver and bronze objects, ceramics, elegant padlocks of bronze and iron, arrowheads, buttons and coins were found on the same islet, in Lake Maelar. "It seems we have struck upon a rich eighth century trading house," Dr. Holmquist said.

Legion Registers Fourth Straight in City Softball League, 6-3

Perry's, Expressmen, Chezzies Also Triumph

After 24 innings, the American Legion softball pitchers finally gave up some runs Wednesday night but the club still went on to register its fourth straight victory in the American Division of the City Softball League with a 6 to 3 decision over Cherny's.

The only other unbeaten club in the loop is Subway Grill, of the National Division, which also has a 4-0 record to date. The Grillmen were idle last night.

Charlie Bock went the distance for the Legion last night and with a 4-0 lead coasted along carrying the unscored upon record to the fifth frame when Cherny's came up with a brace of markers. The losers tallied once more in the seventh while the Legion nine concluded its scoring with a pair of markers in the top half of the fifth.

Tied for Second

Perry's and Rapp's Express are in a two-way tie for second place in the American Division as a result of their triumphs. Perry's walloped Gene's by 10-5 while Rapps sneaked through with a 6-5 win over Hercules.

Chez Emile, meanwhile, cemented its hold on second place in the National Division with a free-hitting 11 to 10 decision over Electrol. The Chezzies have a 4-1 record to date.

In other games last night, the Destroyers turned back Cedar Rest, 14 to 12; Bence's smothered Kaplan Bags by 13 to 1, and Skyline defeated Lincoln Park, 14 to 12.

Houghtaling Wallops HR

Jackie Houghtaling walloped another homer for Perry's in their easy win in addition to a pair of singles. Bob Slover cracked a triple for the winners. Dick Amato went the distance for the winners while Brian Smith hurled for Gene's. Orv Giles came up with one of the better offensive shows of the night with 4 for 4 in the Gene's lineup.

Rapp's Express pulled its game out of the fire with a single tally in the top half of the seventh to nip Hercules, 6-5. Bill Thronburg had a homer for the losers. Tex Brown was credited with the victory while Jim Massuccio took the loss. In a losing cause, John Grube stroked four hits in an easy times at the plate, including a double.

It was a close one right down to the wire in the Chezzies-Electrol clash. Electrol took a 10-9 lead with a pair of runs in the top half of the seventh but the lads of Emile Jordan bounced right back with their own uprising to score three runs and the ball game. Drefin and D. Brown divided the hurling for the losers while Joe Enright, veteran softball hurler, worked for the winners. W. Glaser had a perfect night with 3 for 3 while B. Gill poked out three for four. A. Corrado of Electrol also stroked three for three.

Rochester '5' Loses State Tenpin Title

Utica, June 3 (AP)—The Flower City typesetter team of Rochester has been disqualified as winner of the 1954 New York State Men's Bowling Tournament.

Charles Cochrane, a member of the tourney's executive board, announced yesterday that Captain Charles Argento had submitted a statement admitting that a member of the Rochester squad had accepted a handicap to which he was not entitled.

Lutz Plumbers of Oneonta, who finished second in the competition that ended here May 23, will be awarded the title and prize money, Cochrane said.

Argento, in his statement, said that Frank Andressi had bowled in place of Adam Andressi May 22 and had been credited with Adam's handicap—a violation of Rule 29 of the American Bowling Congress.

The Rochester team has waived all claims to prize money, Cochrane declared.

Carter Scores KO In Second Round

St. Louis, June 3 (AP)—Ringwise Jimmy Carter of New York, displaying a power-packed attack in his second-round knockout of Charlie Riley, stands ready today for an earlier return bout with lightweight champion Paddy Demarco.

The 30-year-old Carter, two pounds over the lightweight limit at 137, rocked Chillin' Charley with four jarring rights to send the St. Louis campaigner down for an eight-count and then finished the fight with a blazing left hook to the jaw last night. Riley weighed 133½.

Riley was counted out in 2:39 of the second round in the televised bout from the St. Louis arena. A Carter-Demarco return fight had been scheduled for last night in San Francisco. It was postponed until September when Demarco was stricken with a virus infection.

LaMotta Retires

Miami, Fla., June 3 (AP)—Former middleweight champion Jake LaMotta, who started a comeback after retiring 18 months ago, says he is through fighting. "I'm tired and I'm through making excuses to myself," LaMotta said yesterday in announcing his retirement. He was scheduled to meet Ernie Durando in a nationally televised fight at the Miami Beach Auditorium next Wednesday night. Billy Kilgore of Miami replaced him.

Maines Wins Own Game

Kingston Defeats Catskill by 4-3

Pitcher's Double Decides Outcome

After having its eight-game winning streak shattered by Newburgh Free Academy Tuesday, Coach Will Burke's Maroon tossers nearly had a two-game losing skein going yesterday.

But Bob Maines, the relief hurler who came on in the second inning to hurl excellent ball, decided to take matters in his own hands and promptly did just that.

With Billy Haber on second base as a result of an error in the bottom half of the seventh inning, Maines stroked a double to drive in Haber with the deciding run in the 4 to 3 squeaker victory over Catskill at Dietz Stadium.

Catskill kayoed Frank Reis in the first inning and Coach Burke sent in Maines, a choice which proved to be very sound as the game progressed.

Inter-League Play Backed By O'Malley

Milwaukee, June 3 (AP)—The chances of the major leagues adopting an inter-league schedule for at least two years are slim, but Brooklyn President Walter O'Malley says he is "very much in favor of the plan."

"I understand it's high on the agenda for the league meetings at All-Star time in Cleveland," O'Malley told newsmen last night. "I think it would be a great stimulus to baseball, particularly at the box office."

The proposal was made originally by Hank Greenberg, general manager of the Cleveland Indians. Greenberg suggested each National and American League team play two games yearly in inter-league competition.

The Brooklyn president said he thought a 156-game schedule, two more than now played by each league, might be the answer. That would mean trimming the present schedule in each circuit to 140 games—20 games against each team—and adding the 16 necessary to permit the eight teams in the two loops to meet twice.

Legion Registers Fourth Straight in City Softball League, 6-3

Perry's, Expressmen, Chezzies Also Triumph

After 24 innings, the American Legion softball pitchers finally gave up some runs Wednesday night but the club still went on to register its fourth straight victory in the American Division of the City Softball League with a 6 to 3 decision over Cherny's.

The only other unbeaten club in the loop is Subway Grill, of the National Division, which also has a 4-0 record to date. The Grillmen were idle last night.

Charlie Bock went the distance for the Legion last night and with a 4-0 lead coasted along carrying the unscored upon record to the fifth frame when Cherny's came up with a brace of markers. The losers tallied once more in the seventh while the Legion nine concluded its scoring with a pair of markers in the top half of the fifth.

Tied for Second

Perry's and Rapp's Express are in a two-way tie for second place in the American Division as a result of their triumphs. Perry's walloped Gene's by 10-5 while Rapps sneaked through with a 6-5 win over Hercules.

In other games last night, the Destroyers turned back Cedar Rest, 14 to 12; Bence's smothered Kaplan Bags by 13 to 1, and Skyline defeated Lincoln Park, 14 to 12.

Houghtaling Wallops HR

Jackie Houghtaling walloped another homer for Perry's in their easy win in addition to a pair of singles. Bob Slover cracked a triple for the winners. Dick Amato went the distance for the winners while Brian Smith hurled for Gene's. Orv Giles came up with one of the better offensive shows of the night with 4 for 4 in the Gene's lineup.

Rapp's Express pulled its game out of the fire with a single tally in the top half of the seventh to nip Hercules, 6-5. Bill Thronburg had a homer for the losers. Tex Brown was credited with the victory while Jim Massuccio took the loss. In a losing cause, John Grube stroked four hits in an easy times at the plate, including a double.

It was a close one right down to the wire in the Chezzies-Electrol clash. Electrol took a 10-9 lead with a pair of runs in the top half of the seventh but the lads of Emile Jordan bounced right back with their own uprising to score three runs and the ball game. Drefin and D. Brown divided the hurling for the losers while Joe Enright, veteran softball hurler, worked for the winners. W. Glaser had a perfect night with 3 for 3 while B. Rochester '5' Loses State Tenpin Title

Utica, June 3 (AP)—The Flower City typesetter team of Rochester has been disqualified as winner of the 1954 New York State Men's Bowling Tournament.

Charles Cochrane, a member of the tourney's executive board, announced yesterday that Captain Charles Argento had submitted a statement admitting that a member of the Rochester squad had accepted a handicap to which he was not entitled.

Lutz Plumbers of Oneonta, who finished second in the competition that ended here May 23, will be awarded the title and prize money, Cochrane said.

Argento, in his statement, said that Frank Andressi had bowled in place of Adam Andressi May 22 and had been credited with Adam's handicap—a violation of Rule 29 of the American Bowling Congress.

The Rochester team has waived all claims to prize money, Cochrane declared.

Carter Scores KO In Second Round

St. Louis, June 3 (AP)—Ringwise Jimmy Carter of New York, displaying a power-packed attack in his second-round knockout of Charlie Riley, stands ready today for an earlier return bout with lightweight champion Paddy Demarco.

The 30-year-old Carter, two pounds over the lightweight limit at 137, rocked Chillin' Charley with four jarring rights to send the St. Louis campaigner down for an eight-count and then finished the fight with a blazing left hook to the jaw last night. Riley weighed 133½.

Riley was counted out in 2:39 of the second round in the televised bout from the St. Louis arena. A Carter-Demarco return fight had been scheduled for last night in San Francisco. It was postponed until September when Demarco was stricken with a virus infection.

LaMotta Retires

Miami, Fla., June 3 (AP)—Former middleweight champion Jake LaMotta, who started a comeback after retiring 18 months ago, says he is through fighting. "I'm tired and I'm through making excuses to myself," LaMotta said yesterday in announcing his retirement. He was scheduled to meet Ernie Durando in a nationally televised fight at the Miami Beach Auditorium next Wednesday night. Billy Kilgore of Miami replaced him.

Maines Wins Own Game

Kingston Defeats Catskill by 4-3

Pitcher's Double Decides Outcome

After having its eight-game winning streak shattered by Newburgh Free Academy Tuesday, Coach Will Burke's Maroon tossers nearly had a two-game losing skein going yesterday.

But Bob Maines, the relief hurler who came on in the second inning to hurl excellent ball, decided to take matters in his own hands and promptly did just that.

With Billy Haber on second base as a result of an error in the bottom half of the seventh inning, Maines stroked a double to drive in Haber with the deciding run in the 4 to 3 squeaker victory over Catskill at Dietz Stadium.

Catskill kayoed Frank Reis in the first inning and Coach Burke sent in Maines, a choice which proved to be very sound as the game progressed.

Playoff Game Today

Meanwhile, Kingston High travels to Poughkeepsie today for its showdown playoff battle for the DUSO championship with Newburgh at Riverview Field. Newburgh's 9 to 2 victory Tuesday necessitated this playoff. Game time today is 4 p. m.

Kingston took a 3-2 lead in its game with Catskill yesterday with a three-run outburst in the fourth inning. The Maroons remained on top until the sixth when Catskill tied it at 3-all. Then came Maines' double with Haber aboard to win the game.

Homers Do Trick

Indians' Amazing Comeback Features No-Hit Mound Work

(By The Associated Press)

It looks more and more as if this Cleveland team really means business.

The Indians frankly admit they like it up on top of the American League standings and they're willing to fight to stay there.

Last night they fought and won their toughest battle so far as they beat the New York Yankees 8-7 in a 10-inning struggle at Yankee Stadium after the Yanks had jumped off to a 7-0 lead in the first inning.

A home run by Bobby Avila tied the score in the ninth and another homer, this time by Al Smith, broke it up. What made the comeback even more amazing was the sensational relief pitching of five Indian hurlers who held the Yankees hitless for nine full innings after a six-hit splurge in the first.

This ability to fight back against a powerful rival on foreign territory makes Cleveland a solid threat. The Indians have had consistently good teams the past three seasons when they've finished second. But they've lacked the spark to fight off the Yankees over the full season.

Balance Is Payoff

Balance was the payoff last night. Al Rosen, the league's most valuable player who is having a great year, ran into an off night. But Avila and Larry Doby took up the hitting slack with three hits apiece.

Early Wynn, normally one of the club's top pitchers, couldn't get a man out. So his relief followers mopped up in almost perfect fashion once the first inning was over. The victory went to Hal Newhouser who finished with three hitless frames.

By winning, the Indians pulled two games in front of the Chicago White Sox who bowed 5-2 to Boston. Baltimore pushed Philadelphia into the league cellar with a 9-1 decision. Washington defeated Detroit 7-2.

Dodgers Take Lead

Brooklyn took first place in the National League by one game over the Milwaukee Braves as they sloshed to a 7-6 decision against the Braves in five innings that consumed more than four hours including two lengthy delays because of rain. Philadelphia beat Cincinnati 7-0. It was too cold for Pittsburgh and the Cubs in Chicago and too wet in St. Louis for the Cardinals and New York.

Sandy Consuegra has piled up five straight victories but he ran into a storm in the very first inning at Boston. The White Sox righthander was battered for four runs in the first and his mates couldn't get even against rookie Frank Sullivan and veteran Ellis Kinder.

Joe Coleman got another chance to taunt his former teammates as he registered his fifth victory for Baltimore and his second straight over the Athletics.

Yost in 700th Game

Eddie Yost of the Senators played his 700th consecutive game, the longest streak since Lou Gehrig of the Yankees ran up his total of 2,130.

Curt Simmons of the Phillies scattered six Cincinnati hits in winning his second shutout and his fifth game.

The Milwaukee game was held up for 1 hour and 31 minutes at the start of the third with Brooklyn ahead 2-1. The Braves went ahead 6-2 in the last of the fourth on Eddie Mathews' grand slam home run.

With the rain coming down it looked as if all the Braves had to do to pick up the victory was to get three Dodgers out in the fifth. But before they could, they had made two errors, Brooklyn had added three hits and had scored five runs to take the lead.

Time was called again after five innings but the game was called without further play.

Appeal to State Expected to Keep Murphy as Chief

Kingston will move, if he so wishes, to retain on the job beyond his retirement limit, its favorite public official, it was learned today.

Joseph L. Murphy, who has served as chief of the local fire department for 30 years, and who has been a fireman for more than half a century, is due for retirement in August, but since his record of service and reputation as a fire chief, goes beyond the city, county and state, all are reluctant to see him leave his office.

Although nothing has been officially stated, to date, the Board of Fire Commissioners is expected to make a bid to the Bureau of Pensions, New York State Retirement System, to retain the services of Chief Joe Murphy.

Sentiment Widespread

This sentiment is apparent among all area firemanic groups which he has served unstintingly through the years in addition to his outstanding and untiring performance of duty in the local department.

The sentiment has been stressed on many past occasions and most recently when the chief was honored at a dinner given here by the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association. Firemen throughout the state joined in tribute to him that night.

The state retirement system, it was learned today, has made exceptions in the past to its regulations governing the retirement of public officials and employes, and many individuals and groups hope it can be done for Joe Murphy, if he chooses to continue serving.

Record as Fireman

On Aug. 1, 1902, Chief Murphy joined Union Hose Company. He was appointed a deputy chief engineer of the paid department on Jan. 1, 1908, shortly after start of the department. He completed 40 years as an official in the department on Jan. 1, 1947. He had been promoted to the office of chief of the department on Nov. 1, 1924 to succeed Rodney A. Chipp.

Through his years of service he has kept abreast of the latest methods of fire fighting and his record is an enviable one among fire chiefs of the state and nation. His work is known wherever firemen talk of a good job well done, and because of this and the fact that he is as well liked as any public official or individual to be found anywhere everyone is hoping that Joe Murphy will stay on the job.

Wisconsin's state parks and forests were visited by five million people last year.

Cohn Says . . .

their stand that their own calls to army officials should not be used unless the army also supplied transcripts of talks with army officials. They made no objection, however, to use of Dirksen's calls.

Cohn charged Stevens is deliberately trying to withhold certain calls from the investigation because they would be damaging to the army's side of the dispute.

Bars Release

Cohn made the charge after army counsel Joseph N. Welch said a White House order obviously barred the release of calls between Stevens and Adams, on the one hand, and Maj. Gen. Kirke B. Lawton, commander of Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

The order, issued May 17, forbade disclosure of private conversations within the administration.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) asked Cohn, chief counsel for the McCarthy subcommittee, if Cohn didn't believe Stevens would make available all the monitored calls he could.

"No, sir, I don't believe that," Cohn replied.

Cohn contended it would be "unfair" to use transcripts of his talks with Stevens and Adams unless the other transcripts were also used.

McClellan said he didn't see how it could be unfair if Cohn's talks reflected that the McCarthy side's contentions in the controversy are true.

Might Give Distortion

Cohn retorted that release of some calls without the others might give a distorted picture, out of context—"one half the picture."

In related developments:

1. The subcommittee voted in a closed session against releasing the transcript of what was said at a meeting it had May 17. Asst. Secretary of Defense H. Struve Hensel had asked for release of this transcript, contending it would show that McCarthy conceded he had no substantiation for his charges against Hensel. While refusing to release the transcript for publication, the subcommittee voted to give a copy to each of those who attended the session, including Hensel.

2. McCarthy suggested that Sen. Symington (D.-Mo.) make a one-man investigation of the McCarthy charges against Hensel. Symington rejected the suggestion.

3. The Defense Department asserted today it has complete power and responsibility to weed out Communists or subversives working on secret defense contracts in private industry. It sent a statement to this effect to Symington who read it at the hearings.

The statement said an impression had been given yesterday that the department was "powerless to protect itself" against Communists or security risks working in private industry on classified projects.

The reference was to debate yesterday over McCarthy's contention he has the names of 130 Communists working in defense plants.

New Deadlock

mixed sub-committee for local duties. But this, he added, should be limited in this function and should remain under control of the international group.

The western powers meanwhile continued to study the question of how the proposed international body should be composed. They generally agreed that it should be made up mostly of Asian nations, but the exact terms of their proposal have not yet been worked out.

Point of Order Permitted

Washington, June 3 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) intoned a familiar "point of order" at the Army-McCarthy hearings today—this time to celebrate the 54th birthday of Chairman Mundt (R-S.D.). McCarthy made the point that TV listeners had heard him deplore the quality of the "straw" smoked by the chairman, and had sent to him a box of cigars to present to Mundt. With a grin, McCarthy passed over a box of fancy "Corona Grandes." That is one point of order I will not attempt to overrule," Mundt replied.

Fire Cause Alleged

Edgewater, N. J., June 3 (AP)—Police said today seven boys and a girl aged 13 to 17 admitted that a fire started while they were smoking in the vicinity of Tuesday's million-dollar waterfront conflagration. Police Chief Edward Pickering said complaints had been signed charging the youths with being juvenile delinquents but that all eight still are in the custody of their parents. Pickering said the teenagers told police a fire started on a wooden pier near the old sugar house from discarded cigarette butts and that they got scared and ran. They had been swimming off the pier.

Appeal to State Expected to Keep Murphy as Chief

Kingston will move, if he so wishes, to retain on the job beyond his retirement limit, its favorite public official, it was learned today.

Joseph L. Murphy, who has served as chief of the local fire department for 30 years, and who has been a fireman for more than half a century, is due for retirement in August, but since his record of service and reputation as a fire chief, goes beyond the city, county and state, all are reluctant to see him leave his office.

Although nothing has been officially stated, to date, the Board of Fire Commissioners is expected to make a bid to the Bureau of Pensions, New York State Retirement System, to retain the services of Chief Joe Murphy.

Sentiment Widespread

This sentiment is apparent among all area firemanic groups which he has served unstintingly through the years in addition to his outstanding and untiring performance of duty in the local department.

The sentiment has been stressed on many past occasions and most recently when the chief was honored at a dinner given here by the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association. Firemen throughout the state joined in tribute to him that night.

The state retirement system, it was learned today, has made exceptions in the past to its regulations governing the retirement of public officials and employes, and many individuals and groups hope it can be done for Joe Murphy, if he chooses to continue serving.

Record as Fireman

On Aug. 1, 1902, Chief Murphy joined Union Hose Company. He was appointed a deputy chief engineer of the paid department on Jan. 1, 1908, shortly after start of the department. He completed 40 years as an official in the department on Jan. 1, 1947. He had been promoted to the office of chief of the department on Nov. 1, 1924 to succeed Rodney A. Chipp.

Through his years of service he has kept abreast of the latest methods of fire fighting and his record is an enviable one among fire chiefs of the state and nation. His work is known wherever firemen talk of a good job well done, and because of this and the fact that he is as well liked as any public official or individual to be found anywhere everyone is hoping that Joe Murphy will stay on the job.

Wisconsin's state parks and forests were visited by five million people last year.

Cohn Says . . .

their stand that their own calls to army officials should not be used unless the army also supplied transcripts of talks with army officials. They made no objection, however, to use of Dirksen's calls.

Cohn charged Stevens is deliberately trying to withhold certain calls from the investigation because they would be damaging to the army's side of the dispute.

Bars Release

Cohn made the charge after army counsel Joseph N. Welch said a White House order obviously barred the release of calls between Stevens and Adams, on the one hand, and Maj. Gen. Kirke B. Lawton, commander of Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

The order, issued May 17, forbade disclosure of private conversations within the administration.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) asked Cohn, chief counsel for the McCarthy subcommittee, if Cohn didn't believe Stevens would make available all the monitored calls he could.

"No, sir, I don't believe that," Cohn replied.

Cohn contended it would be "unfair" to use transcripts of his talks with Stevens and Adams unless the other transcripts were also used.

McClellan said he didn't see how it could be unfair if Cohn's talks reflected that the McCarthy side's contentions in the controversy are true.

Might Give Distortion

Cohn retorted that release of some calls without the others might give a distorted picture, out of context—"one half the picture."

In related developments:

1. The subcommittee voted in a closed session against releasing the transcript of what was said at a meeting it had May 17, Asst. Secretary of Defense H. Struve Hensel had asked for release of this transcript, contending it would show that McCarthy conceded he had no substantiation for his charges against Hensel. While refusing to release the transcript for publication, the subcommittee voted to give a copy to each of those who attended the session, including Hensel.

2. McCarthy suggested that Sen. Symington (D.-Mo.) make a one-man investigation of the McCarthy charges against Hensel. Symington rejected the suggestion.

3. The Defense Department asserted today it has complete power and responsibility to weed out Communists or subversives working on secret defense contracts in private industry. It sent a statement to this effect to Symington who read it at the hearings.

The statement said an impression had been given yesterday that the department was "powerless to protect itself" against Communists or security risks working in private industry on classified projects.

The reference was to debate yesterday over McCarthy's contention he has the names of 130 Communists working in defense plants.

New Deadlock

mixed sub-committee for local duties. But this, he added, should be limited in this function and should remain under control of the international group.

The western powers meanwhile continued to study the question of how the proposed international body should be composed. They generally agreed that it should be made up mostly of Asian nations, but the exact terms of their proposal have not yet been worked out.

Point of Order Permitted

Washington, June 3 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) intoned a familiar "point of order' at the Army-McCarthy hearings today—this time to celebrate the 54th birthday of Chairman Mundt (R-S.D.). McCarthy made the point that TV listeners had heard him deplore the quality of the "straw" smoked by the chairman, and had sent to him a box of cigars to present to Mundt. With a grin, McCarthy passed over a box of fancy "Corona Grandes." That is one point of order I will not attempt to overrule," Mundt replied.

Fire Cause Alleged

Edgewater, N. J., June 3 (AP)—Police said today seven boys and a girl aged 13 to 17 admitted that a fire started while they were smoking in the vicinity of Tuesday's million-dollar waterfront conflagration. Police Chief Edward Pickering said complaints had been signed charging the youths with being juvenile delinquents but that all eight still are in the custody of their parents. Pickering said the teenagers told police a fire started on a wooden pier near the old sugar house from discarded cigarette butts and that they got scared and ran. They had been swimming off the pier.

South should reach a contract of four spades in today's hand whether he is playing for a silver cup, marbles, or coin of the realm. Will he make his contract? The answer depends on which of these three South happens to be playing for.

South has an obvious opening bid of one spade, with 18 points in high cards and one point for the doubleton. North's raise shows trump support in a hand that is worth about 6 to 9 points. This is clearly enough for game but not enough for slam, so South should waste no time in bidding four spades.

When West opens the deuce of clubs, the correct play depends on whether South is playing for total points or match points. Curiously enough, at total points South should make his contract; at match points he should be defeated.

In a rubber bridge game, an expert declarer would immediately put up dummy's ace of clubs at the first trick. South would then draw trumps and give up a club trick. Dummy's extra club would give declarer a diamond discard, so that the opponents could never make more than one club and two diamonds.

It a match point game, South can hardly afford to be the only player in the tournament who doesn't take the club finesse. If the finesse happens to work, 11 tricks will be made at other tables, and South simply cannot afford to be the only player who makes only 10 tricks.

As the hand stands, South is defeated if he tries the club finesse. East takes the king of clubs and returns the suit, allowing West to ruff. The defenders still must get two diamond tricks, and South is therefore set at least one trick. If the defenders are good enough, West will get a second ruff, and South will suffer the ignominy of being set two tricks.

Labrador was named for the pilot who guided John Cabot's ship to the Labrador coast in 1498.

Good Taste Today

By EMILY POST

(Author of Etiquette, Children Are People, etc.)

HOW IMPORTANT IS TELEVISION?

A present-day problem is described in the following letter: "My husband and I are having a disagreement over the following and would like you to settle it. When a friend telephones me while I am looking at a television program that is especially interesting to me, must I be interrupted, or can the person calling be told to call back after the program? Could this be considered rude?

To say, "Mrs. Jones is looking at television," would to most persons seem discourteous. The safest thing to say is: "Mrs. Jones is unable to come to the telephone at the moment but asks if she may call you in ten (or fifteen) minutes."

Appearance Is important

Dear Mrs. Post: I am to be married soon in a long white satin wedding dress and veil. My fiance is not a very tall person—in fact, he is just about my height. For this reason, I would like to wear satin ballet slippers instead of the usual high-heeled ones. Since several of my friends look upon this as a great infraction of rule, I would appreciate your advice on the matter.

Answer: The truthful answer is that you would not only make a far better appearance if you wore the ballet, or flat heels, but it is not a new idea. Countless brides under your circumstances have done the same.

Changing Date on Invitations

Dear Mrs. Post: My wedding was to have taken place this past winter but had to be postponed at the last minute. The wedding invitations were all made up and ready to be mailed when my fiance was taken very ill. The date has now been set again and everything is the same except the date. Would it be proper to change the date by hand, or do others have to be printed?

Answer: If the cost is a serious question, then I think people would understand. But if you can afford to do so, it would be best, of course, to have them redone.

Are you planning to have a shower for a friend or bride-to-be? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her leaflet E-13, "Showers," describes various kinds of showers—the entertainment and gifts. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York-19, N. Y.

South should reach a contract of four spades in today's hand whether he is playing for a silver cup, marbles, or coin of the realm. Will he make his contract? The answer depends on which of these three South happens to be playing for.

South has an obvious opening bid of one spade, with 18 points in high cards and one point for the doubleton. North's raise shows trump support in a hand that is worth about 6 to 9 points. This is clearly enough for game but not enough for slam, so South should waste no time in bidding four spades.

When West opens the deuce of clubs, the correct play depends on whether South is playing for total points or match points. Curiously enough, at total points South should make his contract; at match points he should be defeated.

In a rubber bridge game, an expert declarer would immediately put up dummy's ace of clubs at the first trick. South would then draw trumps and give up a club trick. Dummy's extra club would give declarer a diamond discard, so that the opponents could never make more than one club and two diamonds.

It a match point game, South can hardly afford to be the only player in the tournament who doesn't take the club finesse. If the finesse happens to work, 11 tricks will be made at other tables, and South simply cannot afford to be the only player who makes only 10 tricks.

As the hand stands, South is defeated if he tries the club finesse. East takes the king of clubs and returns the suit, allowing West to ruff. The defenders still must get two diamond tricks, and South is therefore set at least one trick. If the defenders are good enough, West will get a second ruff, and South will suffer the ignominy of being set two tricks.

Labrador was named for the pilot who guided John Cabot's ship to the Labrador coast in 1498.

HOW IMPORTANT IS TELEVISION?

A present-day problem is described in the following letter: "My husband and I are having a disagreement over the following and would like you to settle it. When a friend telephones me while I am looking at a television program that is especially interesting to me, must I be interrupted, or can the person calling be told to call back after the program? Could this be considered rude?

To say, "Mrs. Jones is looking at television," would to most persons seem discourteous. The safest thing to say is: "Mrs. Jones is unable to come to the telephone at the moment but asks if she may call you in ten (or fifteen) minutes."

Appearance Is Important

Dear Mrs. Post: I am to be married soon in a long white satin wedding dress and veil. My fiance is not a very tall person—in fact, he is just about my height. For this reason, I would like to wear satin ballet slippers instead of the usual high-heeled ones. Since several of my friends look upon this as a great infraction of rule, I would appreciate your advice on the matter.

Answer: The truthful answer is that you would not only make a far better appearance if you wore the ballet, or flat heels, but it is not a new idea. Countless brides under your circumstances have done the same.

Changing Date on Invitations

Dear Mrs. Post: My wedding was to have taken place this past winter but had to be postponed at the last minute. The wedding invitations were all made up and ready to be mailed when my fiance was taken very ill. The date has now been set again and everything is the same except the date. Would it be proper to change the date by hand, or do others have to be printed?

Answer: If the cost is a serious question, then I think people would understand. But if you can afford to do so, it would be best, of course, to have them redone.

Are you planning to have a shower for a friend or bride-to-be? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her leaflet E-13, "Showers," describes various kinds of showers—the entertainment and gifts. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.
